Notes on the Pedigrees of Gibbons.

Thomas Gibbons of Ettingshall, who heads the pedigree, was presumably son of William Gibbons (living 13 April 1542) and grandson of Thomas Gybbons, who held lands in Sedgley of Edward Sutton, Lord Dudley—both named in the Sedgley Court Rolls. William Gibbons in 1542 and Thomas Gibbons in 1588-9 each paid to the Lord a rent of 33*s.* 3*d.* for the lands they held in Sedgley. In 1520 William Gybbins had a lease from Richard Fellow of Moresfeld in Sedgley. On 29 Dec. 1552 Richard Gybbyns of Bryerley quitclaimed to William Gybbyns his brother his interest in Hervys tenement in Ettingsall.

There are five intermarriages with the Persehouse family. Margaret the daughter of Edward Persehouse, who married Thomas Gibbons in 1680, is named in the pedigree of Persehonse entered at the Visitation of Staffordshire on 27 April 1664. Her father Edward Persehouse, in his will dated 27 Dec. 1682 and proved in P.C.C. 30 Sept. 1685 (107, Cann), appoints his son-in-law Thomas Gibbons overseer of his will, and leaves his daughter Margaret "only a 20 shilling peece of gold," having "given her a good portion in marriage." Edward Persehouse was the eldest son of Richard Parkes alias Persehouse, "one of the esquires of Sir Ferdinando Dudley when he was made Knight of the Bath," by Jane his wife, a natural daughter of Edward, Lord Dudley. He is referred to by Dud Dudley in his Metallum Martis as "Richard Parkehouse's son, my nephew Edward Parkshouse."

The connection between the two Gibbons pedigrees is apparent. The Rev. Benjamin Gibbons (1824—1912), the grantee of arms in 1871, was grandson of Thomas Gibbons and Mary Moseley named in the second pedigree. His pedigree is recorded in the College of Arms, 19 D. 14. 51. Further particulars about the Gibbons family are given in Crisp's Visitation of England and Wales, IX., 45, and Notes, VIII., 146, and in Burke's "Landed Gentry."

The Gibbons family estates in Sedgley, which were considerable, were sold by the Purton family, to whom they came by marriage, about 1850. Mary Gibbons, the only surviving child of Edward Gibbons and Mary Piddock, married in 1755 John Purton of Eudon Burnell, Salop. The Purtons represent the oldest branch of the family, being descended from the marriage of Thomas Gibbons with Margaret Persehouse, whilst Mr. John Skipworth Gibbons of Boddington Manor is the representative of the marriage of William Gibbons with Elizabeth Hawkesford. Mr. William Pike Gibbons of The Foxhills, Wombourn, is the great-grandson of William Gibbons of Bristol.

The extracts from the Sedgley Court Rolls (now preserved at Dudley) and from three separate Family Registers throw light on the earlier pedigree. A large number of deeds and wills dating from 1520 are in existence.

The account of the family of Keeling of Sedgley is an enlargement of that printed in "Misc. Gen. et Her.," N. S., IV., 231.

Notes on the Pedigree of Russell.

The foregoing Pedigree of Russell was consolidated by the York Herald from pedigrees entered up at the College of Arms in 1835 and 1876 in these books :— 13 D. 14. 157, 19 D. 14. 170 and 200, and 20 D. 14. 5. Armorial bearings were granted to James Russell on 29 May 1835, and the same arms and crest (quarterly with Pavier) to William Adey Russell, on his taking the additional name of Pavier, on 8 Oct. 1874 (Grants xli. 21, and lix. 48). The earlier grant is printed in "Misc. Gen. et Her.," N. S., IV., 18.

Henry Russell, who heads the pedigree, had five children who were all baptized at Wednesbury, and one other named in his will, viz. : (1) Henry, bapt. 22 Sept. 1738 ; (2) Samuel, bapt. 12 March 1740 ; (3) Thomas, bapt. 8 April 1743 ; (4) Elizabeth, bapt. 14 Sept. 1745 ; (5) William, bapt. 16 June 1747 and bur. 18 Nov. 1750 ; (6) James, named in his father's will. The will is dated 4 June 1759, and was proved at Lichfield 16 June 1761 by Sarah Russell his widow and executrix. Samuel and Elizabeth are not named in the will, and were presumably dead in 1759.

Thomas Russell (1743—1816), his third son, had issue five children, all baptized at Wednesbury, though James and John only are named in the pedigree : (1) Elizabeth, bapt. 3 Oct. 1769, mar. to John Harper of Wednesbury ; (2) Thomas, bapt. 3 Nov. 1771, mar. Frances Taylor of Wednesbury ; (3) James ; (4) Nancy (called Anne), born 3 March and bapt. 5 April 1779, mar. at Wednesbury 10 May 1804 to Thomas Fletcher of Handsworth (see 13 D. 14. 153, and "Misc. Gen. et Her.," N. S., IV., 215) ; (5) John. The settlement on his marriage with Elizabeth Robbins is dated 5 and 6 Aug. 1766. His will is dated 17 Nov. 1814, and was proved 3 Sept. 1817.

The will of James Russell (third child of Thomas) is dated 6 Oct. 1848, and was proved in P.C.C. 24 Aug. 1849. A fuller account of his descendants is given in "Misc. Gen. et Her.," N. S., IV., 235-236. The will of his (James's) second son Thomas Henry Russell (1808—1853) is dated 6 Feb. 1853, and was proved in P.C.C. 1 Feb. 1854. In it he mentions his children Francis Henry, James De Blois, Mary Annabel (wife of Edwin Smith), Albert Hannington, Catherine Aliee (wife of .... Dampier), Lucy Amy (wife of .... Day) and Maria Louisa.

The eldest branch of the family is represented by Mr. John Gidley of Exeter (eldest son of the late Bartholomew Charles Gidley and Mary Elizabeth Russell), who quarters the arms of Russell and Best with his paternal coat. The younger branches are represented by Mr. Herbert Arthur Russell-Pavier of Newlands, Heaton Moor, who bears the arms of Pavier and Russell quarterly, and by Mr. John Bernard Russell of Portland House, Aldridge, Staffordshire.

Bulteels in Ireland.*

I publish this rather fragmentary account of the Irish Bulteels in hope of eliciting some information about the missing links.

The Bulteels were a Huguenot family of Tournay, who migrated to England in the sixteenth century. Their pedigree is in the Visitation of London, 1633-4, Harl. Soc., 15, 118, with armorial bearings, the coat being : Azure, a chevron or, in chief two swans argent beaked and unguled gules, in base a pair of shears of the third, a crescent for difference. In "Misc. Gen. et Her.," N. S., IV., 421, is an alternative French coat, confirmed in 1660 by Garter to John Bulteel, Secretary to the Lord Chancellor of England, viz., Argent, semy of billets and a bend gules, to be borne singly or quartered with the other coat in the first or second place.

* Communicated by Sir A. M. B. Irwin.

A fragment in the handwriting of Samuel Bulteel of Sligo (see below) about 1820 is as follows :—

"Three brothers, James, Dominick and Samuel Bulteel were obliged to fly from Tourney in French Flanders during the persecutions of the Protestants. They came for refuge to England about the latter end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. James settled in Tavistock in Devonshire. Dominick was in priest's orders, and died without issue. Samuel settled at Plymouth. Some part of his issue went to Ireland and settled there and had issue."

This tradition does not quite agree in detail with the Visitation of London. James doubtless was the ancestor of the Bulteels of Fleet. There was a Samuel Bulteel in Plymouth in 1647; his signature on a fine recovery was in the possession of Admiral Rowley Bulteel and mentioned in a letter from him dated 23 Nov. 1806.

Katherine Bulteel, mother of William Carick of Glandin, co. Kerry, was defendant in a Chancery suit (Chidley Coote, plaintiff) of 26 April 1680. In the decree, 25 Feb. 1696, she is described as widow. John Bulteel next mentioned was probably her second husband.

John Bultcel of the county of Kerry had a son Dominick, born in Kerry in 1670, who entered Trinity College, Dublin, on 29 April 1685, and took his degree of B.A. in 1689. He next appears as the Rev. Dominick Bulteel, M.A., when collated to the vicarage of Outragh (Ballinamore), co. Leitrim, diocese of Kilmore, on 17 Oct. 1716. He married Magdalen, daughter of Capt. Henry Gwyllym of Drumcassidy, co. Cavan, and of his wife Bridget, daughter of Humfrey Perrott of Drumhome, co. Cavan. The vicar died intestate, and administration was granted to his son John Bulteel on 10 Sept. 1743.

Brockhill Bulteel of Ballinamore, eldest son of the vicar, died intestate, and administration was granted to his father on 5 June 1735.

Sanford Bulteel of Arddrum near Ballinamore died intestate, and administration was granted to his widow Margaret on 20 March 1745. He was probably another son of the vicar.

The above John Bulteel, son of the vicar, seems to be identical with John Bulteel of Derryvackney, parish of Drumlane, co. Cavan, and diocese of Kilmore, who appears in many documents from 1762 to 1804. In a Chancery bill of 1 June 1795 he calls himself "an old man, near 80 years of age, all his life a farmer, for the most part on the lands of Derryvackney." His daughter Agnes married James Noble of Lisnaskea, co. Fermanagh, Esq., in Dec. 1770. His son Henry Bulteel married Martha Nixon of the parish of Drumully, diocese of Clogher; bond dated 21 Aug. 1774. The parish registers of Drumlane are lost, and the returns are very fragmentary. John made his will on 15 June 1802, and it was proved on 13 Nov. 1804. He made provision for his wife Martha, and left Derryvackney to his grandson John Bulteel, subject to annuities to John, junior's, brother Henry and sister "Reachil" Bulteel, "County of Sisil, Head of the Elk, America." Probably the three grandchildren were among the settlers who emigrated with James Talbot to Maryland. John came home on hearing of his grandfather's death, and was killed by a fall from his horse. Administration was granted to his cousin Edward of Sligo (mentioned below) on 12 Dec. 1804. By old John's will, failing his grandson's heirs, the lease of Derryvackney was to go to Bartholomew Bulteel of Drumbarlom near Belturbet.

There were buried at Drumlane—

Catherine Bulteel in 1800-1.
Martha Bulteel, aged 67, in 1818-19.
Bartholomew Bulteel, aged 87, in 1823.
Married—James Walsh and Mary Bulteel on 25 Feb. 1824, by licence.

On 4 Aug. 1752 James Bulteel, Esq., and Rose Bulteel, otherwise Cary, his wife of the Kingdom of Great Britain, sold to Henry Cary of Londonderry the eqnity of redemption of certain lands of Banagher, co. Londonderry, which had been held by Rose's father on lease from the Bishop of Derry. Rose was a daughter of Arthur Cary of Derryard and his wife Rose, daughter of Thomas Dawson of Castle Dawson, co. Londonderry. Rose the mother died a widow in Oct. 1743, and Rose Cary her daughter, then unmarried, was her executrix (Derry probate 30 April 1744). James Bulteel probably married her in Ireland and then moved to Great Britain. Query, Was James a son or grandson of the Rev. Dominick Bulteel.

Mary, daughter of James Bulteel, mariner, and his wife Rose, was baptized in Stepney Church on 19 Oct. 1750.

John Bulteel of Derryvackney had a brother James who must have been several years older than John, for he had a grandson Samuel Bulteel who married about 1772, and was for a good many years Collector of Customs at Sligo. The following two documents speak for themselves:—

"Dear Samuel,

"The bearer, Mr. Graham, tells me that one of the name is living. If you be the grandson of James you must be my grandnephew. I have buried all my family, should gladly have a conference with you. My age and hurry of farming has prevented my calling on you, but as you are going and perhaps would gladly see the family signet in massy gold, call on me, or if you cannot I will see you, God willing, as soon as I have the potatoes set. Let me have a few lines from you, and direct to John Bulteel, Derryvackney, near Belturbet. If married, my best wishes attend you and Rib, etc.

"Cavan, 5th April 1783. "(Signed) JOHN BULTEEL."

"I certify whom it may concern that I received this letter by the hands of Andrew Graham, Esq., Inspector of Excise, and on my going to Dublin to pass my accounts I called on Mr. Bulteel at Derryvackney, who I found was my grand-uncle; he shewed me the family signet, and told me that as I was the only one of the name in this kingdom in the male line that he knew of who was next heir and entitled to have the family signet, he gave it to me, and which is now in my possession. I further certify that on being informed of the death of my grand-uncle John Bulteel of Derryvackney, and also of the death of his grandson John Bulteel (who had come from America) by a fall from his horse, I advised my nephew Edward Bulteel of Sligo, the only son of my eldest brother Edward Bulteel of Workington, to administer for the property in the name of his father, who was the next heir in the male line. Given under my hand, Shantala near Galway, 2nd June 1823.

"(Signed) SAMUEL BULTEEL.

"Witness present (signed) Alexdr McCreery, jun."

On 11 Dec. 1784 this Samuel Bulteel "of the town of Galway, gentleman," took a lease of the White Strand near Galway for the lives of himself, his wife Susanna Bulteel, otherwise Tankerville, and his eldest daughter Mary Bulteel, aged about 11. One of the witnesses is Elias Tankerville, who was Sheriff of Galway in 1749, 1756, 1764 and 1770, and Mayor of Galway in 1775. He was probably Susanna's father.

Samuel Bulteel was Collector of Sligo in 1792. He resigned the appointment apparently about 1821, and went to live at Shantalla near Galway. He was living in Dec. 1824.

Samuel's cousin, Admiral Rowley Bulteel, was living at Mount Pleasant near Plymouth, Post-Captain on half pay, when he wrote a long letter to Samuel in November 1806. He used a seal with the arms depicted in the Visitation of London, which is now in the possession of W. H. Irwin, Esq., a descendant of Samuel.

Samuel's nephew Edward Bulteel of Sligo died about 1832.

John Bulteel's "family signet in massy gold" is lost, but there are five impressions of it on the marriage articles of Harloe Irwin and Mary Bulteel dated 27 Sept. 1792 shewing the two coats quartered as allowed by Garter's certificate of 1660.

Samuel Bulteel and his wife Susanna Tankerville had issue:—

1. Mary, born about 1773; died 1833; married in 1792 Harloe Irwin of Seafield, co. Sligo. (See "Misc. Gen. et Her.," 5th Series, II., 27.)

2. Susanna, born about 1774; living 1834; married about 1800 Alexander McCreery, banker, of Sligo 1801; of Liverpool 1831. (See below.)

3. Hester, born about 1775; living 1831; died before Dec. 1833; married in 1800 Thomas Palmer, son of Colonel Palmer of Cuffisborough, Queen's County.

1. Samuel Bulteel, died s.p.

2. Andrew Bulteel, an officer in the Sligo Customs in 1823, afterwards Liverpool Customs. He was probably father of Samuel W. Bulteel, Secretary L. and Y. Railway about 1868—88.

Alexander McCreery and his wife Susanna Bulteel had issue (the order of birth not certain):—

1. Susan McCreery, married Commander William Patterson, R.N., and had a daughter Susan Patterson who married .... Riky, went to Canada about 1864, and had issue Elias, Robert, Susan and Minnie Riky.

2. Alexander McCreery, married in 1848 Elizabeth Hill and had issue Alexander Fletcher McCreery (died 1873) and Maria Elizabeth McCreery.

3. Samuel Bulteel McCreery, died s.p.

4. Elizabeth Ellen McCreery.

5. John Stephen McCreery, married in 1848 Honoria Kirwan. (See below.)

6. Edward McCreery, died s.p.

7. Elias Tankerville McCreery, died s.p.

8. Hester McCreery.

John Stephen McCreery and his wife Honoria Kirwan had issue:—

1. Alexander McCreery, died 1898; married in March 1884 K. C. Nicholson and had issue:—

1. Stephen Alexander McCreery of Ipswich, born Oct. 1885.
2. Reginald McCreery, born 31 March 1888.

2. John Edward McCreery of Birkenhead, married in June 1882 C. A. Comber and has issue:—

1. Ethel Elizabeth McCreery, born Oct. 1883.
2. Violet Comber McCreery, born Oct. 1885.
3. Hilda Bulteel McCreery, born Nov. 1887; married in 1917 W. A. Roberts in America.
4. Cecil Mary McCreery, born Nov. 1890.
5. Honora May McCreery, born Jan. 1893.

3. Samuel Bulteel McCreery, married in 1883 J. Jones and has issue Arthur L. McCreery, Capt. R.A.M.C., born Jan. 1885.

(No Marriage Entries 1637, 1638, 1639.)

[At this point of time the entries almost entirely cease in this Register for some twenty-three years (March 21, 1639 until September 1, 1663), with the exception of three Baptismal entries on page 15 (1641, 1647 and 1650), and two entries of Births on page 16 (1659—1662). All the entries on pages 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 are curiously intermixed without any regard to order. In some cases the names of children belonging to the same Family have been entered together according to the date of their birth, without any mention of their being baptized.]

Pedigree of Family of Seale of Queen's Co., Ireland.

Compiled by J. F. Fuller, Esq., F.S.A., M.R.I.A., Dublin.

Note.—The branches of this family are so widely spread and numerous in the Queen's County that I found it quite impossible to make the pedigree exhaustive. The fact of Edward Seale of Cloonadacacy having married four times—two Protestants and two Roman Catholics—rendered my task more difficult. His one wife identified, Mary Meredith, was a Protestant, and from this marriage a great many of the Seales derive; but I have failed to discover the names of the other three wives. Another difficulty which confronted me was the abnormal fecundity of certain lines. For instance, Henry Seale by his wife Sarah (Green) had fifteen children; then again, Sarah Seale (White) had nineteen, and her sister Caroline Seale (Salter) had sixteen—and so on. The search for all their descendants—many of whom emigrated—I found to be hopeless. Hence the pedigree is of necessity merely tentative; but if its publication should result in the acquisition of additional information, my labour will not have been entirely in vain. I believe these Irish Seales to be descended from Cromwellian ancestors. In the Index Nominum of "Enrolments of Adventurers' and Soldiers' Certificates" in office of the Chief Remembrancer of the Exchequer, Dublin, 1668-9, the names of Dr. Thomas Seale (Roll 26, folio 40) and William Seale (Roll 29, folio 84) occur; but I am unable to connect them with the first of the family mentioned in this pedigree.

. . . . Seale.

Alice . . . ., born 1681; died 1 March 1767; bur. in Clonenagh Churchyard. = John Seale of Clonard.

Richard Seale of Oldtown, born 1689; died 20 Oct. 1737. Gravestone in Clonenagh Churchyard. = Margaret . . . ., born 1693; died 1729. Gravestone in Clonenagh Churchyard.

= Henry Knight, Gent., of Maryborough. Will proved 1773; mentions daughter and son-in-law.

Colonel Richard Seale, died at Rathangan 1817; bur. Clonenagh Churchyard. (Clonenagh Parochial Returns, Record Office, Dublin.

Edward Seale of Oldtown and Clonkeen, born 1727; died 18 May 1809. Will proved same year. Mentioned as son-in-law in will of Henry Knight. = Margaret Knight.

Ann Seale, mar. . . . . Colclough.

first bar three ogresses (HUMBERSTONE); impaling: Azure, a bull's head couped affronté argent, armed and winged or (HOSTE).

Since the inscription on the Humberstone monument was copied, the discovery of the Humberstone crest on a helmet, with part of a mantling beautifully carved in oak and painted, shows that the monument was originally much more elaborate. During the restorations in the church this crest, etc., which was fixed by a pin, became detached and broken, then probably placed on the top of the Deane monument out of sight. The crest is: A griffin's head erased argent, beaked gules, and charged with three ogresses in pale.

For Humberstone pedigrees see "Lincolnshire Pedigrees," Vol. II. (Harl. Soc.) and "Visitation of Hertfordshire, 1634" (Harl. Soc.).

(P.C.C., 234, Lane.) Matthew Humberstone of Humberstone in Lincolnshire, Esq^re^, but residing in Crutched Fryers, in S^t^ Olave, Hart Street. Will dated 14 March 1708. To be buried in the chancel of the parish church within his town and manor of Humberstone and a marble monument to be erected in the south aisle of that church for himself and wives. Some dispute about the amount of jointure in his marriage settlement dated 18 Sept. 1694, but settled by agreement in Chancery by decree dated 13 Oct. 1703 to mutual satisfaction, namely, £7000 on his side and £3000 on her side in the hands of Sir Robert Clayton, who brought it into chancery 5 April 1705 and placed it in the hands of Tho^s^ Pitt, Esq., Master in Chancery, to purchase lands to go to the children, or if none to said wife M^rs^ Mary Humberstone; in place of that she is to have £500 a year for her life, £100 for mourning for herself and servants, plate, jewells, the use of the house, etc., and furniture, etc., at Walthamstow, Essex, for her life, keeping it in good repair for the next heir male. He has no children, and thinks it right to settle the results of his care and industry on the male heirs bearing his name; his nearest relations by blood are already deceased. It plainly appears by Dugdale's Monasticon, Mr. Chauncey's book and the records of the Heralds' Office that the name and family of Humberstone have been very ancient, viz., Anno 1326, 1331, 1422 in Lincolnshire and Hertfordshire, Leicestershire and Norfolk; that William de Humberstone, Esq^re^, in 5 Edw. III. gave his manor of Tillingham Hall and other lands in South Weald, Dodinghurst and Childerditch to the monastery of Coggeshall, in Essex, whose chief seats were at Tydd Upton, Binbrooke, Haleshall, in or near Loddon St. Mary, Walkern Park, etc., in which churches several monuments of the name remain bearing date 1564, 1582, 1591, 1627, yet by the hand of God, the late civil wars, and the marriage of heiresses, who carried much of the old estates away, the family have in some measure become extinct or moved away and in indifferent circumstances, and he desires to convey his estates to the heirs male of such a family, therefore by this will settles his estate on the Drapers' Company in trust for ever, namely, his manor of Humberstone with the advowson of the Rectory of Humberstone in Lincolnshire, fishing in the river Humber, all lands, tenements, tythes, etc., in Clethorpe, Thiconsco, Hoole and Weelesby in the parishes of Clee, Tetney, Houlton, Scartho and Laceby in Lincolnshire to lay out £15,000 on lands, etc., in that county or adjacent counties with advowsons, etc., but not marsh or fen lands. Instructions for building a new house at Humberston very particularly given. All to be settled on testator's godson Matthew Humberstone son of John Humberstone of Wickenby in Lincolnshire, gent., for his life, and after his death to his eldest son, and so in tail male, and failing such to another godson Matthew Humberstone, son of Edward Humberstone, of Greenwich, Kent, gent., and so to his eldest son in tail male, failing such, to Matthew Humberstone, one of the sons of William Humberstone of West Rason, co. Lincolnshire, and his heirs male in like manner, then to James Humberstone, late of Welby in Leicestershire, now living in London, for his life, then to his sons in tail male; failing such heirs male, to George Humberstone, son of Mr. George Humberstone of Boston in Lincolnshire, deceased, whom the testator educated in London and Holland in Latin,

French, Dutch and Italian, and then apprentised to Sir Thomas Webster, Bart., merchant trading with Turkey and Russia, for life, then to his heirs male, failing these, then to . . . . Humberstone, junior, son of John Humberstone of Metheringham in Lincolnshire, gent., for his life and then to his issue in tail male; failing such, to Richard Humberstone, eldest son of William Humberstone of West Rayson in Lincolnshire, gent., in like manner. Remainder to John Humberstone, senior, of Wickenbury in Lincolnshire, gent., and his issue in tail male, failing such, to . . . . Humberstone, eldest son of William Humberstone of Thransco in the parish of Cloe in the same county, in tail male, and failing such Testator has bred up in learning ten youths of his own surname from Hertfordshire, therefore, failing the Lincolnshire families, the Drapers' Company are to convey the estates in like manner on Jonathan Humberstone son of Richard Humberstone of Hertford in tail male, remainder to Isaac Humberstone another son of the said Richard Humberstone of the town of Hertford in like manner, and failing his male issue, then in like manner to Richard Humberstone eldest son of Thomas Humberstone of Cuddicott near Welwine in Hertfordshire, failing his male issue, then in like manner to John Humberstone son of John and Susan Humberstone of Cuddicott aforesaid, deceased, like remainder to Samuel Humberstone another son of the said John and Susan Humberstone, failing his male issue then to Richard Humberstone son of Richard Humberstone of Stevenage, co. Herts, and his issue male, with like remainder to William son of William Humberstone of Baldock, co. Herts, then to Benjamin another son of the same William Humberstone of Baldock, younger brother of Benjamin, failing his issue male, then to John eldest son of William and elder brother of the said Benjamin, remainder to John son of George Humberstone of Cheshunt, co. Herts, and failing his male issue, then in like manner to George younger brother of the last named John, and remainder in like manner to Richard Humberston of Badburnham in Cambridgeshire, failing his male descendants, then to John Humberstone of Metheringham in Lincolnshire, gent., with like remainder to Thomas Humberstone of Metheringham aforesaid, second brother of John, in like manner, with remainder to Edward Humberstone of Metheringham, third brother of John of the same place above named, and failing his issue male, then to William Humberstone of St. Augustine's in Bristol in like manner and with like remainder to Edward Humberstone of Greenwich in Kent, gent., then to Francis Humberstone of St. Edmund's Bury in Suffolk who married Dr. Short's daughter of St. Edmund's Bury, and was son of Charles Humberstone late of Loddon in Norfolk, gent., if he and his heirs be good protestants and not else. Failing heirs male of the former, then to William Humberstone of Fenchurch Street, London, in tail male, failing such to James Humberstone of Bushby in Lincolnshire in like manner; remainder in like manner to Thomas Humberstone, senior, of Broadwater, Hertfordshire, then to Thomas Humberstone, junior, of the same place; failing his heirs male, to Thomas eldest son of Thomas Humberstone of Cuddicott, co. Herts, in like manner, with remainder to William Humberstone second brother of Thomas, and in default of issue male, then to John Humberstone third brother of Thomas of Cuddicott; then in like manner to John Humberstone late of Rupery Park in Glamorganshire, and failing his issue male to Richard Humberstone, senior, of the town of Hertford in tail male, with remainder to John Humberstone, junior, son of John Humberstone, senior, of the town of Hertford, failing such then to Henry eldest son of Henry Humberstone of Great Amwell, co. Herts, like remainder to William second brother of the same Henry, then in like manner to Thomas son of Thomas Humberstone of Great Amwell, and failing such, to Robert eldest son of Robert Humberstone of Hoddesdon in the parish of Broxborne in Hertfordshire, failing his issue male, to Thomas Humberstone second brother of Robert the younger, with like remainder to John third brother of Robert and Thomas, failing his heirs male, then in like manner to William Humberstone eldest son of Thomas Humberstone of Broxbourne, failing such to Thomas second son of the said Thomas of Broxborne, failing such to George Humberstone son of Thomas Humberstone of Weston, co. Herts, in like manner with remainder to Frank or Francis second son of the said Thomas of Weston, failing such to Edward Humberstone of Wormley in Herts, with remainder in like manner to Timothy Humberstone of Wormly but since removed to Cheshunt, failing his issue, then to George Humberstone of Hatfield Woodhall, Herts, in tail male, with remainder in like manner to William Humberstone of Barking in Essex, and failing his heirs male to Randolph Humberstone of St. Saviour's, Southwark, with like remainder to Robert Humberstone late of Ashby in Lincolnshire, after of Temple Bar, London, failing his heirs male to Giles Humberstone of Bristol and his heirs male, with like remainder to Henry Humberstone of Norwich, gent., the elder brother, and failing such to Richard Humberstone the second brother, then to John Humberstone of Norwich the third brother, then to Charles Humberstone of Norwich the fourth brother, then to Henry son of William Humberstone of Norwich, then to Richard the second son of the last named William Humberstone of Norwich, all in tail male. The inheritors must be of sound mind, good life and members of the Church of England. If it should happen in the course of time that all the male descendants of the Humberstones become extinct, then the ministers and churchwardens of Humberstone in Lincolnshire, Humberstone in Leicestershire and of Walkerne in Hertfordshire [in which church are four ancient monuments of the family of Humberstone] are to make choice of some virtuous young man to take the name and the coat of arms of Humberstone for him and his heirs male.

To Matthew Humberstone Parkins of Boston in Lincolnshire £20. To kinsman Henry Fearon of Calver near Cockermouth in Cumberland, gent., £10. Kinsman Thomas Fearon of Whitelow near Shields in Northumberland, gent., £10. To the parish of St. Olave, Hart Street, London, £20 for their poor, in which church is a monument to testator's first wife Mrs Jone Humberstone, and on the lower part of which is to be engraved testator's name and date of death. Proved 21 Oct. 1709.

The will contains many charitable bequests, the whole being a very long will occupying forty-seven pages of the large registered will books at Somerset House. This abstract is very much abbreviated, long as it is, but the unique list of remainders in tail male and the final effort to preserve the testator's estate in his name and arms gives it some special interest.

Here lieth buried Dame ANNE the wife of Sir
John Radclif knight who died the tenth daie of December Anno Dom. 1585.

This inscription is on a monument with a lady kneeling at a faldstool in an alcove or recess, with a coat of arms in a lozenge behind her. The arms are those granted to Thomas Benolt, Clarenceux King of Arms, who died in 1534 and was buried in St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, viz, Argent, a chevron sable between three ogresses, on a chief azure a lion passant enclosed by two crosses patée fitchée or.

The burial register has this entry: "1585, Dec. 18. The Lady Anne Radcliffe, late the wife of Mr Fuller Judge of one of the Sheriffes Courtes in Guildhall, brought from St Brides." The lady was Anne, second daughter and coheir of Thomas Benolt, Clarenceux King of Arms, probably by his first wife Margaret; the second wife was Mary, daughter of Lawrence Farmer of Minster Lovell in Oxfordshire. The marriage of Anne Benolt with Sir John Radcliffe is mentioned in the Heralds' Visitation of Northamptonshire in 1618 (see Harl. MS. 1187, p. 14); at the time of her father's death she was under age and unmarried. It is noticeable that on the monument nothing is said of her second husband Judge Fuller, nor do the arms of either husband appear. It has been asserted that this monument formed part of that of Sir John Radcliffe, but the figure is much too small, being hardly half the size of that of Sir John Radcliffe, but it may originally have been fixed close to the former. The will of Lady Anne and that of her second husband have not been found, but an abstract of her father's will follows :—

Thomas Benolt, Clarencenx King of Arms. Will dated 24 April 1534 (P.C.C., 14, Hogan). He directs that if he dies in London he is to be buried on the south side within the church of " S^{t} Elyñ " in London with his first wife Margaret. He gives to his eldest daughter " Elyñ " his greatest and best chain of gold of 108 links, and as much of testator's plate as will with the chain amount to the value of 200 marks. To his youngest daughter Anne the long chain of gold worth about 100 marks and as much plate as will make up 200 marks value. If either or both daughters die unmarried and under the age of 21 years, the portion of such so dying to go to now wife Mary. Wife's uncle Richard Farmer to be trustee and guardian to said daughters. To friend Thomas Hawley, Carlyle Herald, all books of Registers old and new, Rolls of Arms, books of interments, all books of visitations, etc., and others concerning the office of Herald, for this life, and after to each who shall be Clarenceux King of Arms in succession, as long as they shall endure. To the said Carlyle Herald testator's second coat of arms embroidered upon velvet. To cousin Peter Mewtas " my gowne of black chekyd sattyn furryd w^{t} lyberts embrowderyd and gardyd w^{t} blak velvet and my Jaket of Russet velvet lynyd w^{t} blak cottyn and my doblet of blak sattyn." To wife's uncle Richard Farmer " all my game and mark of swans both olde and yonge being in the ffenys beside Bostone." If wife desires to remarry, testator wishes she may be advised by her loving uncle aforesaid. To brother John Benolt, clerk and Secretary of Calais, " my gowne of damaske furryd w^{t} martyrous before and behynde." Residuary legatee wife Mary. Executors, said brother John Benolt and wife's uncle Richard Farmer, merchant of the Staple of Calais. Proved 16 May 1534.

Notes and Queries.

Sir,

From a manuscript in my possession the Sainthills of Bradninch quartered Sainthill, Pearse, Yarde, Nonant, Russell, Ferrers, Bozieme, Matisford de Fortisbus Ferrers, Beauchamp, Challons, Helion, Cantilupe, Manduit, Waterton, Leigh, Charlnewood, Englisville, Ryme, Vyvon and Bulbeck. I can trace the authority for about six of these families, but not the others, and I should be most grateful if any of your readers could give me information as to how they probably came into the family.

William Scroggs=Elizabeth Mansell. Will proved 1776 by William Scroggs the son (P.C.C., Bellas, 376).

Anne=Rev. Thomas Fisher.

Of Letcombe Regis, Berks. Bapt. in the private chapel at Chute Lodge, Wilts, 11 Sept. 1718. He had the misfortune to be born blind, and it is to be gathered from Chancery Proceedings (1714—58, bundles 638, 1458, 1666, etc.) that from infancy he had the still greater misfortune of being cordially disliked by his parents, who sent him to school when 5 years of age, and from that time onwards regarded him as being unruly, disobedient and extravagant. The evidence of various witnesses was very conflicting, some testifying to his expensive habits and Bohemian mode of living, others averring that he delighted in music and the society of gentlemen of letters who read Latin and Greek authors to him, and that he only lived and behaved as other young gentlemen of his age and station. Notwithstanding his blindness, he kept horses and hunted with the hounds. He further greatly offended the family by making a mésalliance. After the death of his parents the Duke of Somerset in giving evidence admitted he had been misled concerning the conduct and character of his nephew William Scroggs owing to what he now considered to have been misrepresentations made to him by William's late father. George Fettiplace of Letcombe Regis, Berks, a cousin and godfather of William Scroggs, and who died in 1730 (will proved in June, P.C.C., Auber, 158), left him all his Berkshire estates, the one moiety in immediate possession and the other moiety in reversion on the death of his cousin William Gilby without issue. William Scroggs died at Topsham, Devon, in 1767, his will being proved in April of that year (P.C.C., Legard, 155).

Capt. 5th Fusiliers. It having been stated by Lord Campbell in his "Lives of the Chief Justices of England" that L. C. J. Scroggs "died without a relation to close his eyes, leaving no descendants, and that he must have been the last of his race, for since his death there has been no Scroggs in Great Britain or Ireland," Capt. William Seymour Scroggs wrote calling Lord Campbell's attention to the fact that Sir William Scroggs, son of the Chief Justice, was knighted during his father's lifetime, and a son of his had married Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Seymour, Bart., and sister of Edward, 8th Duke of Somerset, whose grandson Lieut.-Col. Sydney Scroggs was the writer's father. Lord Campbell thought it right to insert in the second edition of his werk "an extract from the letter he had received signed William Seymour Scroggs, Capt. 5th Fusiliers, who he doubted not was a very honourable gentleman, and stated facts which might be depended upon."

Possible origin of the Family of Scroggs.

Note 1.

The Scroggs of Hertfordshire probably derived their descent from the Scottish family of that name. In 1200 Robert de Scrogges, having lost his life in the service of David de Lyne, the latter granted to his son Simon de Scrogges a charter of his lands of Scrogges in Lyne, co. Peebles. In 1296 Adam del Scrogges, Burgess of Haddington, and William del Scrogges of Peebleshire swore fealty to King Edward I. In 1413 David del Scrogges owned land in Aberdeen, of which town he was Provost. In 1489 William Scrogges was Escheator for the counties of Northampton and Rutland, and it is possible that he was the father of Thomas Scroggs of Patmore Hall.

Note 2.

Arms of Scroggs.

The arms of the Bedfordshire branch of the Scroggs family are precisely the same as those said by Papworth and Burke to have been borne by the family of Cragge in the time of Henry III., but whether these two families were one and the same, or whether owing to the similarity of name the Scroggs of Bedfordshire were granted, or assumed, the arms of Cragge has not yet been ascertained. In any case the arms are not characteristic of the early period mentioned by Papworth. It is a somewhat remarkable circumstance, as shewn by the illustrations, that there is not the smallest resemblance between the coats of the Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire branches of the family; indeed, the charges on the shields almost convey an impression of antagonism in their conception. It is unfortunate that the arms of Thomas Scroggs the progenitor of the two branches are not recorded.

The L. C. J. Scroggs was apparently in the habit of using the arms of his family without any mark of cadency to indicate that he came of a younger son. An example of this is to be seen on sealing-wax at the British Museum in Add. MS. 29549, fo. 70. In consequence, the following letter was written to him in 1670 by John Scroggs of Albury :—

"ffr'ancis Scrogges' will is dated 1585, who had liuing then 5 son'es John Scrogges, Henry, Thomas, William & Francis, & 6 daughters. I find a lease, dated the 34 yeare of Eliz., wherein Jo: S' letts a tenement, lands, and a mill in Stotten al's Kirton in Suffolke to Will^m^ S'crogges, mercer cittyzen of London, who dwelt at y^e^ Castle in Wood Street, w^h^ I account 78 yeares since, w^h^ I beleiue (or conjecture) might be y^e^ grandfather of Sir William S'crogges now y^e^ King's Sargiant-at-Law, and brother to John S'crogges y^e^ son of ffr'ancis first abouesaid. John S'crogges y^e^ elder brother liued but seuen yeares after his father, and was about 55 (or 7) yeares old at his death, and died in 1592—78 yeares since y^e^ yeare he made the abouesaid lease. These were owners successiuely in Patmer Hall in Aldbury, comt. Hertf.—

ffr'ancis S' his son, his wife Newport.
John S' his son, his wife Burton.
Edward his son, his wife Smith.
John his son now running his 58 yeare in 1670, his wifes Bancroft; after her Lytton.
John his son,

S^r^, under fauour, I think you ought to put a halfe moone, or mullet, or y^e^ like to shew your branch from a younger brother.

Jo. S'crogges."

At the foot of this letter are the following lines :—

" I eonsider y^e^ descent may be right as from ffrancis Scroggs, but y^t^ Tho. y^e^ 3^d^ son of ffraneis was grandfather to S^r^ W. Scroggs, one of y^e^ K' Sergeants, & y^t^ Henery y^e^ 2^d^ son his family is extinct.

Will. Scroggs."

(Lands. MS. 255, fo. 70.)

Note 3.

Sir John de la Lee's marriages.

That Sir John de la Lee married both Joan de Furneaux and Joan de Pateshull, the heiresses of these two families, is proved by the I.P.M. taken at his death, when it was affirmed that he died seised not only of his patrimony of Albury, Herts, but also of estates hitherto not in his family, viz., the manors of Brent and Furneaux Pelham, Herts, and Salcott Verley, Barnwalden and Farnham, Essex, the respective inheritances of de Furneaux and de Pateshull families. The mother of his son Walter de la Lee must have been Joan de Furneaux, but his three daughters, the wives of Robert Newport, John Barlee and Sir Thomas Morewell, were evidently children of Joan de Pateshull, as the descendants of these ladies quartered the arms of Pateshull, but never those of Furneaux.

Note 4.

An interesting discovery of two brass roundels was made at Albury a few years ago when structural alterations were being made in the church. The roundels are of the early part of the 15th century, each bearing a shield of arms surrounded by a foliated circle, the intervening space between this and the shield being engraved with small ivy leaves. The arms on one are those of Barlee impaling Pateshull, and on the other those of Pateshull. It is probable that these roundels ornamented the now destroyed tomb of John Barlee and his wife Joan (? Pateshull), mentioned by Chauncy as existing in his time and then lying in the north aisle of the church, with the following inscription : " Hie jacent Johannes Barlee armiger et Johanna uxor ejus qui quidem Johannes obiit die mensis Augusti Anno Dom. 1420, et predicta Johanna obiit 15 die mensis Febr. anno Dom. 1419, quorum . . . ." It is curious that Weever records this same inscription as being on a tombstone in Furneaux Pelham Church, and another commemorating Henry Barlee, grandson of the above, and his wife Katherine. It is improbable that any of the Barlee family were buried at Furneaux Pelham, and as Weever makes no mention of the inscriptions he saw in Albury Church, it is possible that, by an error, those of John and Henry Barlee were inserted in his notes under the heading of Furneaux Pelham instead of Albury. The altar tomb in the Furneaux Pelham church, on which is a remarkably fine double canopied brass with the figures of a man in civilian attire and his widow and child, which has been ascribed by some writers to Sir Walter de la Lee and by others to John Barlee, is probably that of Robert Newport and his wife Margery de la Lee.

Monumental Inscriptions in Folkestone Church, Kent.

In the "Misc. Obituary.

SIR GEORGE JOHN ARMYTAGE, Bart., D.L., F.S.A.

By the death of Sir George Armytage the "Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica" has lost a valued contributor whose additions to genealogical knowledge are widely appreciated by students of family history. He was a very careful worker and never hesitated to give time and trouble without stint to his investigations, always endeavouring to go to the fountain-head for information, so that accuracy was the sure reward of his diligence and care. His willingness to help those who were making genealogical or archæological researches evidenced his kindness of disposition, and the thoroughness of his personal character was manifest in all his undertakings.

In 1869 he founded the Harleian Society, and was joined in that very successful effort by the late Dr. J. J. Howard, the founder and for many years the editor of the "Miscellanea." The importance of the work projected by the Harleian Society soon attracted a large accession of members, and to-day we have in its publications a long series of volumes of Heralds' Visitations and other original documents, which are invaluable to genealogists and to those interested in heraldry. For this Society he edited a number of works.

Sir George's unusual administrative ability was conspicuous in his energetic direction of the affairs of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company, of which he was chairman for twenty-one years, to the advantage both of the Company and the shareholders.

He was High Sheriff of Yorkshire in 1907 and a Deputy Lieutenant for the West Riding; was elected a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries in 1869; was President of the Yorkshire Archæological Society, and for some years President of the Record Society of Lancashire and Cheshire; he was also President of the Society of Yorkshiremen in London.

Born at Kirklees Park on the 28th April 1842, he succeeded to the estates, as the sixth baronet, on his father's death in 1899; he died on the 8th November 1918, and was buried in the vault in Hartshead Church belonging to his family. He was twice married: first, in 1871, to Ellen, daughter of the Rev. Ayscough Fawkes of Farnley Hall, Yorkshire, by whom he has left surviving issue two sons and a daughter. He married secondly, in 1893, his cousin Mary Georgiana, daughter of Henry Anthony Littledale of Bolton Hall, Yorkshire. He is succeeded by his elder son, Brigadier-General George Ayscough Armytage.

The Armytage family have held the Kirklees estate for about 350 years, and, in 1641, the then owner was created a baronet by Charles I., but that baronetcy became extinct in 1737, when the estate passed, under the will of the third baronet, to his kinsman Samuel Armytage, who was created a baronet in 1738 by George II., and was the direct ancestor of Sir George.

The Family of Milborne of Somerset and Monmouthshire.[1]

William Milborne[2] was seized in his demesne as of fee at the time of his death of a tenement in Crofton Denham, co. Somerset.

Married and had issue—

Richard Milborne.[3] Entered into possession of the tenement in Crofton Denham, etc., at his father's death, and died seized of the same.

Married and had issue—

John Milborne. At the Pleas of Assize held at Yenelchestre (i.e. Ilchester), before the Justices of the King at the Assizes of the county of Somerset, held on Monday in the Feast of St. Peter et Vincula, 7 Henry VI. 1429,[4] came John Milborne and complained that Thomas Yng and Cristine his wife, John Boy and Joane his wife, William Bosegrove and Cristine his wife, Thomas Gibbes and Cristine his wife, and Joane who was the wife of John Bosegrove had wrongfully dispossessed him of his free tenement in Crofton Denham and also of 1 messuage, 30 acres of land, and 10 acres of meadow, with appurtenances.

The said Thomas Yng in his proper person came, but all the others failed to appear.

The said John Milborne claimed the said tenement by virtue of a Charter from the said John Yng, and further stated that William Milborne his grandfather was seized of the said tenement with the appurtenances in his demesne as of fee, and died so seized, and that after his death Richard Milborne his son (father of the claimant) entered into and was seized of the same.

This John Milborne is probably the John Milborne who in his own right in fee, temp. Henry VI., held 3 messuages, 40 acres of land, 24 acres of meadow, 100 acres of pasture, 12 acres of wood, and 20s. rent, with appurtenances, in Dunkerton and Crydelyncote (i.e. Carlingcott), and at whose death they descended to his son and heir.[5]

Married and had issue—

Richard Milborne, son and heir, who inherited the before-mentioned property.

Married and had issue—

William Milborne, Esquire. This is evidently the William Milborne referred to in "The King's Booke of all y^e^ Lords, Knights and Gentlemen of the Realme of England resiaunte in y^e^ tyme of Henry y^e^ 7^th^," 17 Henry VII., 1501-2, in the [2] Probably born about 1350.

[3] The names of Richard and John Milborn are given as jurymen at an Inquisition Post Mortem held at Ilchester the 24th of September 1408, 9 Henry IV., after the death of John Louell (i.e. Lovell), chivalier. Probably these are the Richard and John referred to in the pedigree, see below. (Inquisition Post Mortem, 9 Henry IV., 1408, No. 29.)

county of Somerset, but as the value of his estate was not affixed to his name he was not certified to be made a Knight of the Bath.[1]

He (by his attorney) came before the Court of Common Pleas in Hilary term, 17 Henry VII., 1502,[2] and petitioned against Alice Balon to recover the before-mentioned property, setting forth the descent of the same as before recited, to which she answered through her attorney that she held the said property as free tenant, but although called upon she did not further respond, and the suit appears to have fallen through as no decision is recorded.

He married Isabella daughter of . . . .

He appears, as will be seen hereafter, to have died sine prole.

The only information relative to this member of the Milborne family is derived from the Inquisition Post Mortem held at Bruton in the county of Somerset the 6th of October 1537, 29 Henry VIII.[3] (the writ to the Escheator of the county being dated at Westminster the 7th of May of the same year).

In this Inquisition he is styled esquire, and was found to have died seized in his demesne of messuages and lands in Crawthorne, Merston, Yewell (i.e. Yeovil), Were Huntles, Churchill, Compton Dundon, Donkerton (i.e. Dunkerton) and Credlincot (i.e. Carlingcote), situate in co. Somerset.

And being in his lifetime so seized, by his Charter bearing date the 5th of September 1509, 1 Henry VIII., he granted and confirmed the same to William Newton, Esquire, William Pike, John Soper, William Syddeham, Thomas Eunwyn and John Heuett, junior, son of Richard Heuett, and their assigns for ever in consideration of his marriage with Isabella his wife. And by his Charter bearing date the 12th of September 1509 he further confirmed the same to the use of himself and Isabella his wife, and after their decease remainder to his right heirs.

And being so seized in his lifetime, by his Charter bearing date the 16th of November 1514, 6 Henry VIII., granted the same Nicholas Pep (? Peper), Prior of Taunton, Richard Long, Thomas Somerset, Thomas Ashirste, William Lodbroke, Ralph Pitt and William Ph . . . .,[4] their heirs and assigns in consideration of his marriage with Isabella his wife, which deed was in further recognition of his Charter dated the 8th of November 1514, by which he stood seized of and in the said premises with Isabella his wife as free tenants, with remainder after their decease to his right heirs.

Which said premises he granted and confirmed by his Charter dated the 23rd of October 1536, 28 Henry VIII., to Robert Baron of Northcadbere (North Cadbury), his heirs and assigns, on condition that the said Robert Baron should hold the same for the life of him the said William Milborne, and after his decease for the term of the life of the said Isabella, with remainder to the right heirs of William, by virtue of which the said Robert Baron stood so seized.

The Inquisition Post Mortem further records that he was found to have died the 1st of November 1536, 28 Henry VIII., and that George Milborne, aged 14 years, was found to be his cousin and next heir, and that Isabella Milborne, widow, then occupied all the before-mentioned premises by virtue of her life interest under the before-recited deeds.

The lands and premises described in the Inquisition Post Mortem agree in almost every detail of description and quantity with the greater part of the possessions of George Milborne, Esquire, of Milborne Port and Dunkerton, hereafter set forth, therefore it can be assumed that George Milborne, the cousin and heir of William, and the said George Milborne of Milborne Port, are one and the same person.

. . . . Milborne married and had issue—

I. George Milborne, of whom see below.

II. William Milborne, Legatee under the Will of his brother dated 27th of June 1559.[1]

III. Elizabeth Milborne, Legatee under the Will of her brother dated the 27th of June 1559.[1]

George Milborne,[2] (1) Esquire, of Milborne Port and Dunkerton, both in the county of Somerset.

Born about 1521 or 1522, if the Inquisition Post Mortem held at Bruton the 6th of October 1537, 29 Henry VIII., is correct.

He died the 11th of August 1559, and was buried at Trent[3] in the county of Somerset.

By his Will, which bears date the 27th of June 1559, 1 Elizabeth,[1] and was proved at London the 31st of October the same year by Julian Milborne his widow and executrix, he desired his body to be buried where it might please God to call him to his mercy, and described himself as sick in body. To Julian his wife for term of her life he gave all his manors, lands and tenements, rents, reversions, services, and all other his hereditaments with all and singular their appurtenances in Spetisbury in the county of Dorset, and Queen Camell, Merstone, Crothorn, Were, Okye, Ydbell, Canington (i.e. Cannington), and Derlye (i.e. Derleigh), in the county of Somerset. He also willed that Hugh Weston and William Hannem, gentlemen, and their heirs should take and receive all the revenues, issues and profits of his Manor of Dunkerton in the county of Somerset, and of all other his lands, tenements, rents, reversions or services with all and singular their appurtenances in Dunkerton, Kerlingcott and Compton Dundon in the said county of Somerset until they had receeived the sum of 240*li.* for the marriages of his four daughters Mary, Anne, Mabell and Martha, to be equally divided among them when they were married if they were ordered and ruled by his wife and his overseers, the said money to be kept in a coffer at Trente with two locks, one key of which was to be in the custody of his overseers and the other to be held by the said William Hannem and Hugh Weston, but if Giles Milborne his son and heir-apparent, his heirs or assigns, disturbed or interrupted the said Hugh Weston and William Hannem, their heirs or assigns, in the receipt of the revenues, issues, etc., before mentioned, or any part or parcel thereof, before they had received the whole sum of 240*li.*, then his said daughters were to have all the said manor, lands, tenements, etc., before mentioned to them and their heirs for ever equally divided amongst them. To his said daughters Marie, Anne, Mabell and Martha he gave the lease of the parsonage of Milborne Port and all his right, title, etc., of the said lease and parsonage equally to be divided among them if they lived until they were married, but if any of them died before marriage then the part of her so dying to go to the "overlivers" (i.e. survivors), but if all dead before marriage then the said 240*li.* and the lease and parsonage of Milborne Port and all his right in the same to go to his sons George, John, Thomas and Josua (i.e. Joseph) equally divided among them or the survivor of them, and if all the said sons died before the age of 21 years then the said lease and interest in the said parsonage he willed should go to his brother William Milborne and Elizabeth his sister and their assigns for ever. Also if all of his sons dead before the age of 21 years then the sum of 240*li.*, or as much as should have been received, to be paid to his next heir. He further directed that if Giles Milborne, his son, his heirs and assigns, disturbed, molested, etc., his brother John or his assigns in the occupation of the farm of Lottesham, Hornblotton and Stone, or any part or parcel thereof, and did not permit him to peaceably occupy the same according to such lease and grant as he the testator had made him by his deed, or should "disquiet" any part of his testament and last will contrary to the true meaning thereof, then he gave all his lands, tenements, rents, reversions, services, and all other his hereditaments with their appurtenances in Queen Camell to the said John, his heirs and assigns, for ever. And further, that if his said son Giles Milborne, his heirs or assigns, disturbed, molested, etc., Josua Milborne his brother, or his assigns, in the occupation of one tenement with a water mill with divers lands, meadows, etc., belonging to the same in Hornblotton or any part or parcel thereof, and would not permit him or his assigns to peaceably occupy the same according to such lease and grant which he the testator had made him by deed, then he gave and bequeathed to the said Josua Milborne all his lands and tenements, rents, reversions, services and all other his hereditaments with their appurtenances in Crothorne and Merstone. To Julian his wife he bequeathed all the rest of his goods and chattels not already disposed of, and constituted her his sole executrix, and further appointed his brother-in-law Thomas Gerarde and Thomas Gerrarde of Chilton, his overseers.

[3] In the old Register of Milborne Port, edited by the Rev. C. H. Mayo, M.A., R.D., is an entry of Humphrey Milborne being buried at Trent the 7 July 1569, but I have not yet been able to ascertain to whom it refers.

This will was signed George Milborne in the presence of William Hannam, William Milborn,[1] gentleman, Walter Randoll, Richard Golberd, Henry Raynolde, Walter Roo and Thomas Milborn.[2]

It will be noticed that no specific bequest to his sons George and Thomas Milborne occur in the will; it is therefore probable that they were provided for in his life-time in a similar manner as described to John and Josua (i.e. Joseph).

At an Inquisition Post Mortem held at Bruton, co. Somerset, the 1st of April 1560, 2 Elizabeth,[3] pursuant to a Writ to the Escheator of the county dated the 20th of March preceding—

It was found that George Milborne died seized of lands, etc., in Milborne Port, Kyngesbury (i.e. Kingsbury), Dychyatt (i.e. Ditcheat), Queen Camell, Lottesham Green, Hornblotton and Stone, all in co. Somerset.

All which before-mentioned premises situate in Queen Camell, Lottesham Green, Hornblotton and Stone he was found to have granted by his Charter dated the 6th of February 1546, 37 Henry VIII., to Robert Jerard, John Larder, Thomas Jerard of Chilton, Richard Perham, Richard Harvye and Stephen Mason in trust. This, no doubt, was to secure the property to his wife Julian during her life, but the precise intent of the settlement is not set forth.

He was also found to have died seized of Merston, Crothorne, Were Okye, Yevell, Cannington, Berlye, Dunkerton, Kerlyngcote and Compton Dundon, all in co. Somerset.

The before-mentioned Trustees also held these properties by his deed dated the 13th of February 1546, 37 Henry VIII.

The Jury also found that he died the 11th of August 1559, 1 Elizabeth, and that Giles Milborne was his son and heir and of the age of 17 years and 6 months.

Another Inquisition Post Mortem was held at Sherborne in the county of Dorset the 30th of July 1560, 2 Elizabeth,[4] by virtue of a Writ to the Escheator of the county of Dorset dated the 27th of May preceding.

By this Inquisition George Milborne was found to have died seized of lands, etc., situate in Great Craford[5] and Little Craford in the parish of Spetisbury in co. Dorset.

[1] Probably his brother.
[2] No doubt this was his son Thomas.

[4] Chancery Inquisition Post Mortem, 2 Elizabeth, Part 1, No. 20.
[5] In the "Valor Ecclesiasticus," Henry VIII., vol. i., p. 260, it records that a rent reSolute of 6*d.* was paid out of the issues of the manor of Great Crafforde (i.e. Crawford) to William Mylborne by the Monastery of the Blessed Virgin Mary of the Order of Cistercians. This William Milborne no doubt was the William Milborne to whom George Milborne succeeded as cousin and heir.

This property he devised by his will to his wife Julian for the term of her life.

The date of his death given in this Inquisition is the same as that given in the Inquisition held at Bruton, and Giles Milborne his son and heir was found to be aged 18 years and more.

He married first .... daughter of .... Penny. By this marriage he had issue—

I. GILES MILBORNE, son and heir, of whom see page 137.

II. GEORGE MILBORNE, gentleman, of Benvyloe, in the parish of Corscombe in the county of Dorset.

Although he has been placed as a son by the first marriage it requires verification, as his name does not occur in the Heralds' Visitation, A.D. 1623,[1] but it may be inferred, with some authority, that he was by the first wife, as he mentions his cousins George and William Penny in his will, and had he been a son by the second marriage of his father this relationship could not have existed.

It is probable that the omission of his name in the pedigree recorded in the Heralds' Visitation, A.D. 1623, may have arisen from two causes—first from his settlement in the adjoining county; or secondly, his brother Thomas Milborne knowing that he had died without issue shortly before he entered the family pedigree in the Visitation, he may have considered it unnecessary to record his name.

He died in 1620.

By his Will which bears date the 6th of June 1620, and was proved at London the 8th day of February in the same year (stilo anglice) by the executors George Milborne and George Penny,[2] he describes himself as of Benvyloe in the parish of Corscombe in the county of Dorset, gentleman. To the church where he should be buried he bequeathed 10*s.* and 20*s.* to the poor of the same parish. To Katherine ffoxwell daughter of Henry ffoxwell, gentleman, he bequeathed 20*li.* To his cousin Elizabeth ffathers, widow, he bequeathed 10*li.* To his cousin Bridgett Matthewes 10*li.* To Thomas Milborne his brother 5*li.* To his brother Richard Samborne and his children 5*li.* To his cousin Anne Hodie[3] 3*li.* To his cousin Bridgett Hodye 3*li.* To his cousin Francis Hodye 3*li.* To his well-beloved kinsman George Milborne[4] of Winistow (Wonastow) in the county of Monmouth 50*li.*, and to his cousin George Penny 40*s.* To his cousin William Penny 10*li.*, and 10*li.* 10*s.* to his cousin William Penny's children. To his cousin Anne Isham, sister to his cousin William Isham whose husband's name he did not remember, 30*li.* To William Isham his cousin 30*li.* To Anne Allen his servant, the wife of John Allen he bequeathed 10*li.* to the building or buying of a house. To his ancient friends John ffookes and Anne his wife 40*s.* to buy her a ring. The residue of all his goods not given or bequeathed he gave to his well-beloved kinsmen George Milborne and George Penny, whom he appointed his executors, and further appointed his well-beloved friends John Smith[5] and John Zouch, Esquires, and John ffootes,[6] gentleman, to be his overseers.

Following the will is a list of debts evidently owing to him at the time of making the said will, viz.: Debts of Mr. William Kymer 222*li.*, of Mr. George

[3] It will be seen on reference to the Warre Pedigree that his brother Giles Milborne married Grace Warre, great-granddaughter of William Hoddye of the Exchequer. This probably was his reason for calling Anne, Bridget and Francis Hoddye his cousins, as I have not found any nearer connection between the Milborne and Hoddye families.

[4] Son and heir of his brother Giles Milborne.

[5] His niece Edith married John Smith of Dunkerton. Probably this is the John Smith referred to.

[6] Probably an error for "John ffookes."

The will was signed "George Milborne," the witnesses present being John ffookes, Johannis Allen, Anne Allen and Thomas Priee.

GEORGE (I.) married seeondly Julian[1] daughter of William Gerarde,[2] Esquire, of Trent in the county of Somerset. (She married seeondly Thomas Page, gentleman, of West Haeche, eo. Wilts., as his third wife.)

By this second marriage he had issue—

III. JOHN MILBORNE. He had a farm at Lottesham, Hornblotton and Stone settled upon him previous to his deeease.

He was a legatee under the will of his grandmother Mary Gerarde, dated the 20th of Mareh 1577.[3]

He died sine prole.

IV. JOSEPH MILBORNE.[4] Baptized at Milborne Port, co. Somerset, the 11th of June 1557.[4]

Prior to his deeease he settled on him one tenement and a water mill with divers lands in Hornblotton.

He is called Josua in his father's will.

To the parish ehureh of Trent she bequeathed 3*s.* 4*d.*, and to the poor man's box in the said ehureh 3*s.* 4*d.* To the poor man's box of the ehurch of Overhumpton 12*d.* To the poor mau's box of the ehurch of Nether Compton 12*d.* To the poor man's box of the church of Mudford 12*d.* To the poor man's box of the ehurch of Sampford Orgnes 12*d.* To her daughter Julian Page as follows: "Item I give vnto my daughter Julian Page one ffeather bed with thapp'aunces that is to say one Coverlet one payre of Blanketts one payre of Sheets one bolster and one pillowe. This will was witnessed by Robert Elliott, "person (i.e. parson) there," Nicholas Adams, John Stagge, with others, and was proved at London the 19th day of June 1578 upon the oath of George Harrison, Notary Public Procurator of Thomas Gerarde, exeeutor.

Julian Page is mentioned in her father William Gerarde's will dated the 12th of January 1567, and proved the 31st of January 1567 as "My daughter Julyan Page," whieh proves at that early date she was the wife of Thomas Page.

The Fettiplaces of Coln St. Aldwyn, co. Gloucester.

Communicated by J. Renton Dunlop, F.S.A.

In the pedigree of this branch of the family, given in 5th Series, Vol. II., Part 7, it was stated in a footnote on p. 247 that "the evidence contained in the wills of Anne Fettiplace and Nathaniel Weston affords almost conclusive proof that George and Edmund were the sons of Robert Fettiplace of Broughton," but as Sir John Fettiplace's will (proved January 1664, P.C.C., Bruce, 67) proves he had three sons named Giles, George and Edmund, it seems, notwithstanding the evidence of the wills above referred to, that George and Edmund were the sons, not the brothers, of Sir John Fettiplace. Moreover, their sister Anne was probably the wife of John Tucker, who was believed to have married Anne Fettiplace, the daughter of John Fettiplace of Fernham. Presumably Sir John Fettiplace's sister Frances married his step-son Nathaniel Weston, as shown in the following pedigree :—

Robert Fettiplace=Anne.

- William Fettiplace=Jane. Of Lemhill, cos. Gloucester and Oxon. Died 1683.
- Giles Fettiplace. Lived at Coln St. Aldwyn. Witnessed the will of his brother Sir John.
- Barbara=John Peck of Broughton Poges, Oxon.
- Anne. Died unmar. Will proved March 1659.
- Frances=Nathaniel Weston of Ramsden, Oxon, and afterwards of Mayfield in Goreing, Sussex. Will proved Sept. 1672 (P.C.C., Fure, 15). Ob. s.p.

Sir John Fettiplace=Eleanor, dau. of John Bray of Fyfield, Oxon.

Of Coln St. Aldwyn, co. Gloucester. Died 1663. Will proved January 1664 (P.C.C., Bruce, 67). "To be buried in the chancel of the church of Coln St Aldwyn; my mother Mrs Anne Fettiplace; my daughter Anne Fettiplace; my brother Giles Fettiplace; my brother William Fettiplace; my son Giles Fettiplace; my son George Fettiplace of the Middle Temple; my son Edmund Fettiplace."

Harbert Weston of Bradwell, Gloucestershire. Died 1635, aged 31. Monument in Bradwell Church erected by "his wife Eleanor, daughter of John Bray of Fyfield, Oxon"; on it are two kneeling figures, with a child, in the dress of the times, and the arms of the ancient family of Weston of co. Stafford, viz.: Quarterly: 1 and 4, Or, an eagle displayed sable; 2 and 3, Argent, on a chief azure, five bezants. Will proved June 1635 (P.C.C., Sadler, 62). "My wife Eleanor; to my son Nathaniel and his heirs all my lands, messuages, etc." 1st husband.

Nathaniel Weston.
Witnessed the will of Sir John Fettiplace.

A

Edmund Fettiplace=Elizabeth. Of St. Clement Danes. Died 1677.

Robert Fettiplace. Born 1 Jan. 1640.

Anne=John Tucker. Only dau. Mar. 1674.

Giles Fettiplace=Mary, Of Coln St. Aldwyn. Died 702. dau. of John Purnell. Died 1701.

George Fettiplace=Rebecca=Elizabeth.

Of the Middle Temple, London, and of Mayfield, Goreing, Sussex, which was bequeathed to him by Nathaniel Weston. Will proved May 1686 (P.C.C., Lloyd, 57). "I give and bequeath all my said estate which was the inheritance of my brother Nathaniel Weston to my son Giles Fettiplace and his heirs; and it is my will and mind that a weekly sum of seven shillings be paid to my son George for his life, and no more." Feet of Fines, Sussex, 1 James II. :—"William Bagnall, gent., and Thomas West, gent., plaintiffs, and George Fettiplace, Esq., deforciant; tenements in Goreing and all tithes arising in Goreing, also the rectory of Goreing and the advowson of the vicarage of Goreing, quitclaimed to plaintiffs and the heirs of William Bagnall."

George Fettiplace=Cecily. Giles Fettiplace.

Sussex Feet of Fines, 5 William and Mary. "John Cooke, Esq., plaintiff, and George Fettiplace, gent. and Cecily his wife, deforciants; the same premises above mentioned quitclaimed by the deforciants to John Cooke and his heirs."

St. Mildred's, Canterbury.

Readers are referred to Ante, Second Series, Vol. III., p. 261, where will be found John Hopkins who hereby petitions to change his name to Probyn. He succeeded to the estate of Newland, co. Gloucester, under the will of his mother's brother Sir Edmund Probyn, knt., chief baron of the Exchequer. He was elected M.P. for Wootton Basset in 1757. His descendants remained seated at Newland till about 1820, when the estate was sold, and the family removed to Longhope in the same county. Numerous deseendants of John Hopkins alias Probyn, still exist, of whom several have obtained distinction. The Petition is in MS., but bound up with printed Acts in the British Muscum, marked 357, c, 10, 59. and in pencil 15 Geo. II Cap. 45. In the index, however, it appears noted in print as follows :—

Hic jacet Griffinus Cvrteyes. Nov. xxx. MDLXXXVII.

Since Ashmole's time the motto Velle bene facere has disappeared.

Griffin Curteis was M.P. for Ludgershall in Wilts 1562-3 and Escheator for the Counties of Oxford and Berks. In a short pedigree, of what authority I know not, it is said that his son Nicholas was of Lushill in Highworth, and Walter, son of this Nicholas was of the same place; his grandson Nicholas by his son Griffin, was of Piekwiek, whose son Nicholas married Agnes Tipper of Seend, all in the County of Wilts; it is also stated that one Henry Curteis witnessed a deed of 1422 now in the parish chest of Seend.

The writer would be much obliged for any information about this family; and what was the kinship of the two testators.

Wilkinson of Tottenham.

Thomas Wilkinson was a wealthy merchant of London whose origin is unknown, but from the fact that his Will mentions a sister at Blackburn, Lancashire, and another sister at Stockport, Cheshire, it would seem probable that he came from the North of England.

Armorial china and an old painting, both evidently dating from the eighteenth or very early nineteenth century, shew that this Thomas Wilkinson used for Arms, Gules, a fess vair, in chief an Unicorn passant between two mullets or, a border engrailed or. This Coat was granted in 1519* to John Wilkinson alias Harlyn of London, and seems to have been the basis of the Arms used by, or granted to, numerous Wilkinson families.

With this Coat Thomas Wilkinson impaled Azure, a buck's head caboshed or, which (with the buck's head argent) is the Coat of Legge, Earl of Dartmouth. The belief in the family is that Mary, wife of Thomas Wilkinson, was a niece of an Earl of Dartmouth, but the Peerages do not mention her.

Further information concerning any of the families mentioned in the pedigree, but especially as to the origin of Thomas Wilkinson, would be gratefully welcomed. I am aware that Earwaker's "East Cheshire" (I., 377) mentions a Wilkinson as a Stockport benefactress.

NOTES.

(1) There appears to have been another Thomas Wilkinson, probably a near relation, for the Rev. A. F. L. Wilkinson possesses a mourning-ring engraved in memory of Thomas Wilkinson, died 20 July 1805, aged 60. The date and age shew that this Thomas cannot have been father of the other.

(2) Agnes Hore Taylor was daughter of John and Susanna Taylor, Susanna being daughter of Browse Trist* by his wife Agnes Hore of Nymph. John Taylor belonged to a family seated for several generations at Marridge in Ugborough parish, Devon. The Arms used by the Taylor family, Or, a chevron sable between

* But Papworth's "British Armorial," p. 867, states that the Rev. Browse Trist, the representative of the Trists of Bowden, Devon, died in 1791, and that of his coheiresses one married .... Hausollier, who took the name of Trist in 1797, and "the other" (married) .... Stackhouse. Were there two persons named Browse Trist?

in chief two lions passant fess-wise and in base an annulet (sable), are engraved on a silver cake-basket dating from 1814 and belonging to the Rev. A. F. L. Wilkinson. That gentleman also has impressions and seals shewing the following arms: (1) Taylor as above, impaling Or, a chief indented gules; (2) Taylor, impaling .... a saltire engrailed, between four (?) roses; (3) Taylor, impaling (Or) three lions passant in pale (sable) for Charles (brother of A. H. Taylor) who married Harriet Carew: it is understood that their son was Carew Taylor, a naval officer who was saved at the wreck of the "Royal George"; (4) Gules, three escallops, a bordure engrailed .... for Earle, Susan, sister of A. H. Taylor, having married the Rev. Henry Edward Earle, brother of Sir James Earle, Physician to George III.; (5) (Azure) a quatrefoil (pierced) within an orle of mullets (? estoiles), a canton ermine.*

(3) It is understood that Richard Mountford Wilkinson was named after a resident at Tottenham who was fellow-churchwarden with Thomas Wilkinson. R. M. Wilkinson had a son George and a daughter Rose; George had a son Herbert, and Rose (who was born about 1821) married .... Poynting.

(4) Mrs. A. F. L. Wilkinson is the daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Holmes Ravenhill, Vicar of Arlingham, Gloucestershire, by his wife Mary Frances Vincent Bartlett. Mr. Ravenhill's male ancestors for four generations were of Hereford, and the family were originally of Wessington in Woolhope near Hereford, where the name appears in the Registers as early as 1564. The Arms used by the Ravenhills are: Argent, on three hills (i.e. mounds) vert, three ravens. With this they quarter for Holmes: Barry of eight, sable and or, in a canton argent, a chaplet of roses.

Reviews.

Visitations of Religious Houses in the Diocese of Lincoln, Vol. II. Edited by A. Hamilton Thompson. The Lincolnshire Record Society.

This Volume comprises the records of Visitations held by William Alnwick, Bishop of Lincoln, A.D. 1436—1439. The religious houses and colleges have been arranged in alphabetical order for the sake of convenient reference, this volume consisting of those from A to L.

The valuable Introduction by the Editor is divided into six parts; the first summarises the particulars of the MSS.; the second part gives a biographical account of William Alnwick, whose early advancement appears to have been due to Stephen le Scrope, Archdeacon of Richmond. Some errors found in many works of reference relating to the origin and early career of the Bishop are corrected. During the ten years of Alnwick's tenure of the see of Norwich, he was very active in his efforts against the Lollards. He appears also to have had especial zeal for sound learning in monasteries and elsewhere; and the present series of visitation records affords abundant proof that he was painstaking and thorough in his work. A translation of his will, dated at Buckden in October 1445 and proved at Lambeth 10 December 1449, is included. The third part deals with the various itineraries of Bishop Alnwick; and the remaining parts are devoted to an examination of the documents and the light which they throw upon one of the most interesting aspects of mediæval life.

It can be gathered from the records of the Visitations what were the conditions then prevailing in the religious houses, and, as it is pointed out in the Introduction, there was a general slackness, illegal practices of hoarding up private stores of money, irregular attendance in church and sitting up late, the going to and fro between the town and monastery, leases had been granted without sufficient security, corrodies and pensions had been sold freely, plate had been pawned and that no accounts had been rendered. In addition the moral conditions shewed room for improvement and correction. The mismanagement of the income of the houses, with few exceptions, appears to be very general, and in several cases the management of the property and funds had been placed in the hands of laymen.

Several items of minor importance are interesting; for instance, the playing of chess being forbidden; the keeping of bees, the profits from which were applied to the person's own use, and in one case complaint was made of the keeping of sixteen dogs for coursing at the expense of the monastery.

It is impossible in course of a review to give an adequate account of the historical value of the documents contained in this work, illustrating as they do the general state of the monasteries and secular colleges which these Visitations disclose, although the Editor in his Introduction reminds his readers "to keep before their minds the fact that the object is to discover faults, not to publish virtues."

One of the most valuable and interesting features of this work is the annotations given in the form of notes, which shew evidence of exhaustive research, and greatly enhances its value to all students.

The documents are printed both in the original Latin extended and with the translation on the opposite page.

Lincoln Wills registered in the District Probate Registry at Lincoln, Vol. II., 1505—1530. Edited by the Rev. Canon C. W. FOSTER, M.A., F.S.A. Lincolnshire Record Society.

To all interested in the genealogy of Lincolnshire families this second volume of abstracts of wills will be welcome. It is a continuation of the same series from the beginning of the year 1527 (old style), where Vol. I. stopped. In addition, a few earlier wills, which have been found since the previous volume was issued, are also included.

The Editor in his Introduction deals with the laws and customs in the making of wills from the thirteenth to the sixteenth century and of the various forms in which they are made. He also treats of primogeniture, post-obits of land, the disposal of freehold land held on free soccage or by military tenure, the law of legitim or the division of testators' property into specified parts, and also of mortuaries. He also draws attention to numerous instances that occur in the wills, of a common custom in the neighbourhood of Boston in the sixteenth century, and one which has persisted to the present day, to devise houses and other buildings with the land under them or with the land they stand upon, instead of devising the land in the usual way with the buildings erected upon it.

We look forward to the continuation of the excellent work the Society is doing in this direction.

Here Fisher's table has been re-arranged, corrected and completed, and the line from John of Gaunt's second marriage added. I have not cumbered the pedigree with unessential or familiar details, and have omitted unnecessary names, and given references only in the case of the less known persons. Few dates seemed to be needed. The common ancestor, it will be seen, was Edward I.

It is interesting to note that the only one of these unions which, under the Canon Law, would have required a Papal dispensation was that with Katharine Howard, who, as first cousin to Anne Boleyn, was related to the king by affinity inside the limit of the fourth degree, and so came within the prohibited degrees.

The Family of Milborne of Somerset and Monmouthshire.[1]

George Milborne, esq. (see ante, p. 139), of Wonastow in co. Monmouth, son and heir of Giles Milborne.[2]

Born . . . September and baptized at Milborne Port the 21st of the same month 1569.[3]

In the Public Record Office, Miscellaneous Rolls Tower. No. 441, 15 James I., is a roll of the names submitted to the King for choice of Sheriffs of English counties dated the 6th of November 1617, on which that of George Milborne, esq., Monmouth, was enrolled, to which office he was afterwards appointed.

He was a Justice of the Peace and Quorum, and a Deputy-Lieutenant of the county of Monmouth.

He was also High Sheriff of the county of Monmouth 1617-18, 15 James I., and again 1634-5, 10 Charles I.[4]

On 8 Dec. 1635, during his shrievalty, his son Charles Milborne paid on his behalf to Sir William Russell a sum of 1500*li.*, ship money which had been charged on the county by writ dated the 4th of August in the same year[5] and the 23rd of Dec. in the same year, viz., 1635. The Council directed the new Sheriff of co. Monmouth to reimburse him out of the sum remaining to be levied the amount he had laid out of his own money, viz., 30*li.* or 40*li.*, which his Majesty had been informed that as Sheriff he had expended for the better advancing the levy of the ship money.[6]

By an Indenture dated the 15th June 1621, 19 James I.,[7] he purchased of Thomas Wigmore, gent., of London, all that principal house, lands, tenements, etc., and situate and being in Llanrothall, co. Hereford, for the sum of 525*li.*, which property had been purchased by the said Thomas Wigmore of William Mynors, gent., and Florence his wife, and James Watkins, gent., and Elizabeth his wife.

With reference to Wonastow House, Coxe in his "Tour of Monmouthshire," p. 320, mentioned the house as follows :—

> "The house, though much diminished from its original size, is still a considerable edifice of ancient date, and seems to have been constructed as early as the age of Henry VI. It contains a few portraits, among which is one of Sir Thomas Herbert dressed in the costume of Elizabeth.
> "The chapel, which now stands at the extremity of a large court, is now used as a garden house.
> "The mansion is divided into two tenements, one occupied by Mr. Williams, the 'then' steward, and the other by a tenant who 'rented' the demesne."

In the Nalson Collection of MSS., the property of his Grace the Duke of Portland preserved at Welbeck Abbey,[8] is a list of the names of all such persons who were certified to be in places of charge or trust in their several counties having wives, children, or servants that were recusants or non-communicants, and therefore were vehemently suspected to be ill affected in religion by reason of the Acts of State. The list, dated the 8th May 1628, contains the names of Sir Charles Jones, George Milborne, and Edward Morgan, Commissioners for the Peace for Monmouthshire.

He married, 1597, Christian, widow of William Winter, second son of Sir William Winter of Lydney, second daughter and heiress of Henry Herbert,[1] esq., of Wonastow in co. Monmouth (eldest son and heir of Sir Thomas Herbert, knight, of Wonastow), by his wife Lady Lucy,[2] daughter of William Somerset, third Earl of Worcester (the grandfather of the celebrated Royalist Marquess of Worcester, the defender of Raglan Castle, to whom therefore Mrs. Milborne stood in the relationship of first cousin). She brought the Wonastow estate of the Herberts into the Milborne family. She died the 20th January 1634, and was buried in Wonastow Church.

The following pedigree shews the descent of Christian Milborne from the ancient family of the Milbornes of Tillington in Burghill, co. Hereford, and Icombe, co. Gloucester :—

Katherine the wife of the said John erected a tomb in the church to his memory. This monument, the late Mr. Wakeman informed me by letter dated the 15th March 1864, had fallen into decay, the figures, arms and inscriptions being broken, defaced and illegible, but fortunately a description of the tomb and a copy of the inscription had been preserved in the manuscript of Percy Enderbye, from which he very kindly extracted and forwarded to me the following account :—

"Milborne's Tomb at Wonastow.

(Figures of a man and woman kneeling at a desk opposite each other.)

"Full Forty years we lived in joy together,
Blest in estate, enriched with worldly treasure ;
Blest with a plenteous issue, Our glass is run,
And we return from whence we first begun.

"John Milborne, Esq^r, and Catherine his wife out of their due respect to their parents have erected this monument to their memory.

(Underneath are 4 sons and 7 daughters kneeling, and at the back thus—)

"Here lieth the body of George Milborne of Winestow in the county of Monmouth, Esq^r, Justice of the Peace and Quorum and Deputy Lieutenant of the said county who died 10^th March 1637, and Christian his wife, one of the daughters and heirs of Henry Herbert of Winestow afores^d, Esq^r, who died 20^th January 1634, who has issue 4 sons and seven daughters, viz., John, George, Charles, Henry, Luce, Christian, Margery, Joan, Catherine, Elizabeth and Mary. John married unto Catherine daughter of John Dennis of Puckle Church in the county of Gloucester, Esq^r. Luey married unto Rowland Scudamore of Treworgan in the com. Hereford, Esq^r. Margery married unto Thomas Maddox of Lanvrenaeh, com. Breeon."

"Arms.—On the top Milborne and Milborne quarterly matched with Herbert ; upon the right-hand pillar Milborne and Milborne as before. On the left Herbert with two escutcheons, both Milborne."

It is very unfortunate that the foregoing account of the Arms is not more intelligible, for it is probable that the Milborne Arms referred to as quarters with the Arms of this family were those of the Milbournes of co. Hereford, from whom Christian Herbert the wife of George Milborne was descended.[1]

Will dated the 30th May 1635.[2] Describes himself as George Milborne the elder, esq., of Wonastow in co. Monmouth ; desires to be buried in the chancel of the Parish Church of Wonastow where his upper seat was, and he had no doubt but that his son John Milborne would erect a tomb over him. Whereas he had by one indenture bearing date the 14th day of Dec. 1627, 3 Charles I., made between him of the first part and George Lewes of St. Peere in co. Monmouth, and Walter Rumsey of Lavorer in co. Monmouth, esq., and Rowland Scudamore of Treworgan in co. Hereford, gent., of the other part, doth enfeoffe convey and assure to the said George Lewes, Walter Rumsey and Rowland Scudamore and their heirs, two messuages and tenements, etc., whereof one was called Llanrothall and the other the lower Llanrothall in co. This will was signed George Milborne in the presence of Richard Aldworth, Richard Gardner, Roger Roydon, and George Hartwell, Notary Public.

By a codicil bearing date the 7th March 1637 he gave to his son Charles Milborne all his stock of cattle, household stuff and all other his goods which were in and upon the houses and grounds called Llanrothall to freely enjoy the same with the said farm to his own proper use. Whereas he had given half of all his household stuff unto his said son John Milborne and the other half between his executors. He willed that his said son John Milborne should have only the half of the said household stuff to him formerly given and that the residue thereof should remain to his said sons Charles and Henry so that his debts and legacies be discharged without it and not otherwise. And that whereas he had caused several estates hereafter mentioned to be made, viz., one to his daughter Christian Milborne of the Grange lands, meadows, pastures and woods at the Bewley. To his son Charles Milborne his lands which he purchased in Herefordshire called Llanrothall. To his son Henry Milborne the farm at Donkerton in co. Somerset and the Grange and farm called the Hendree in the parish of Llangattock-viban-avel in co. Monmouth. Pedigree of the Pooles of Sapperton and Coates, Gloucestershire, and of Poole and Chelworth, Wiltshire.

Communicated by J. Renton Dunlop, F.S.A.

PEDIGREE I.

There seems reason to suppose that the Pole family was represented in Wiltshire at an earlier period than that indicated by Harl. MSS. 1040, 1543, and others. These records appear to imply that the John Pole mentioned in the pedigree was a second son of Sir Thomas Poole of Poole, Wirrall, Cheshire, by his wife Maud, dau. of .... Mainwaring. But if the account of the family, given in Ormerod's "History of Cheshire," is correct, this John Poole succeeded his elder brother, Sir Thomas, to the family estate of Poole and died there, leaving no issue. The Inq. P.M. of Sir Thomas, taken 1 Henry VIII., also proves that his brother John was at that time only 40 years of age, consequently he must have been younger than Richard Pole of Sapperton, his attributed son. It would appear more probable that John Pole of Wilton was a son or grandson of John Pole, M.P. for Marlborough in 1442.

John Pole = Elizabeth.

Of Wilton, Wilts, "second brother to .... Poole of Poole in Cheshire, was servant to the Lady Abbess of Wylton" (Harl. MS. 1041, fo. 41). M.P. for Wilton 1472 and 1478.

Will "of Elizabeth, late the wife of John Pole of Wilton, Wilts, Esquire," proved Nov. 1488 (P.C.C., Milles, 21). "To be buried in the church of S[t] Mary and S[t] Edith in Wilton; to my daughter Lady Julian; my daughter Sybil; my daughter Edith; my daughter Elizabeth Bonham; my son and executor Richard Pole; to Leonard Pole and William Bonham a silver cup apiece."

Elizabeth = (? Thomas) Bonham of Bonham Hall and Great Wishford, Wilts. Arms: Gules, a fess wavy between three crosses formy fitchy argent.

Edith = Henry Uvedale (2nd son of Sir Thomas Uvedale of Wykeham, Hants), Squire of the Body and of the Privy Chamber to King Henry VII.; Sheriff of Gloucester 1504. Died 1518. (Hutchins' "History of Dorset," vol. iii., p. 144.) Arms: Argent, a cross moline gules.

1. John Pole. Died s.p. (Harl. MS. 1543, fo. 33).

Lady Julian. — Sybil.

William Bonham.
Knight of the Shire for Wilts 1514; Sheriff of Wilts 1515.

A

. . . ., dau.=of . . . . Danvers (Harl. MS. 1041); ? John Danvers of Calthorpe, Oxon.

B

Richard Pole=Of Isleworth and St. James', London Wall; Squire of the Body to King Richard III. In 1491 he bought from the trustees of Sir William Nottingham the manors of Sapperton and Coates (with many others) in Gloucestershire, and Little Chelworth (and others) in Wiltshire. In the same year he was granted a lease of the manor of Poole, Wilts (Duchy of Lanc. Misc. Books, 30/17). He was Sheriff of Gloucester in 1491 and 1497, and died 29 Oct. 1517. Inq. P.M. of Henry VIII. (Series II., 353-4): "He died seised of the manors of Sapperton, Cotes, Wiggeswold, etc.; Leonard Pole is his son and heir, aged 40 and more." Will proved Nov. 1517 (P.C.C., Holder, 36): "To be buried before the cross standing in the churchyard of S[t] James next London Wall; Dame Elizabeth, late my wife, lyeth buried in the Church of S[t] Vedast; to my son Leonard Pole my manors of Sapperton and Elmsbridge; to my son William Pole the manors of Coates, Wigswold, Stanters, Humberstaines, and Chapmare, provided he settles the manor of Wigswold on his wife Anne for her life; to my son Henry Pole the manor of Little Chelworth, Wilts."

C

Alice, sister of Thomas Langford, and=widow of John Stradling of Dauntsey, Wilts. She and her only son and heir, Edward Stradling, were murdered at Dauntsey about the year 1488, possibly at the instigation of Henry Danvers. Richard Fowler, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, had obtained the wardship and marriage of Edward Stradling, and in his will directed that his daughter Joan should be married to Edward when she attained the age of fifteen. On his death his trustees and executors appointed Henry Danvers, son of John Danvers of Calthorpe, Oxon., guardian of the boy, but in 1484 King Richard granted the wardship and marriage of Edward to Richard Pole of Isleworth, one of the squires of the King's body, for services he had rendered (Harl. MS. 433, fo. 181). Hence probably arose the many violent quarrels and armed frays which took place between Henry Danvers and Richard Pole recorded in Chancery suits of that time,* and ending in the violent death of the younger heir, and the marriage of his only sister with Sir John Danvers. The arms of Langford were: Paly of six, argent and gules, on a chief azure a lion passant or.

D

Kent, to the use of John Goldwell, deceased, whose daughters and heirs the said Elizabeth and Emme are," etc. Arms: Per chief or and azure, over all a lion rampant ermine.

* Henry Danvers v. Richard Pole, squyer. On the 22 April 1 Edward V., Richard Pole in the Ward of Crepulgate in London, viz., in Wood Street, violently with swords, bucklers, etc., seized out of the keeping of Henry Danvers his Ward Edward Stradling, son and heir of Edmund Stradling. * It will be seen from the accompanying photograph that Sir Devereux does not wear a tabard, and it is unlikely he would be doing so at this period. With his left hand he presses to his breast a shield charged with the arms of Poole. The crest of the family was: Out of a ducal coronet or, a griffin's head argent.

† The identity of this second Devereux Poole has not been discovered. He may possibly have been a son of Sir Giles Poole by his second wife Eleanor Lewknor.

Merial, dau. of Robert, 2nd= Viscount Tracy of Rathcoole. Inscription in Fairford Church, Gloucester: "Near this place lyeth the body of Lady Bridget Tracy, wife to the Lord Tracy: she was buried 5 Nov. 1632 .... Here also lyeth buried her eldest daughter Mrial, who married Sir William Poole of Sapperton ...." Arms: "Topaz, an escallop diamond between two bendlets ruby." (Bigland's "Gloucester.")

Sir William Poole, Bart.= Of Sapperton; 3 years of age in 1623 (Visitation of Gloucester); matric. Christ Church, Oxon., May 1636, as son and heir of Sir Henry Poole of Sapperton, aged 15. It appears from a Chancery Suit (Bridges, B. and A., 24/67) that Sir William, in raising money to discharge his composition for delinquency, fell into the hands of an unprincipled lawyer named Gabriel Beck, who finding Sir William of weak character, and unable to manage so great an estate as his was, he managed the affair to his own advantage, securing possession of various deeds. At a later interview he plied Sir William with sack and tobacco, and prevailed with him (as he pretended) to seal and execute a deed of conveyance, but the following morning Sir William disclaimed any knowledge of having sealed the deed. Beck is stated to have made mischief between the mother and grandmother of Sir William's son and heir, then an infant. In the deposition of witnesses taken at Cirencester 16 Jan. 1651-2, Thomas Tayloe, gent., aged 60, says that Sir William Poole, late of Sapperton, was the son and heir of Sir Henry Poole, Bart., and that he lived at the mansion-house of Sapperton, and died there about July last. (Chancery Depositions before 1714, 764/38.)

Elizabeth (? sister of George Wintour of Lydney, Gloucester). Arms: Sable, a fess ermine, a crescent for difference.

Sir Henry Poole, Bart.

Who sold Sapperton, together with other paternal estates, to Sir Robert Atkyns in 1660, but, so far, the indenture of sale has not been found in the Close Rolls. Neither has any will or Inq. Post-mortem of Sir Henry's yet been discovered. Chancery Proceedings (Bridges, 539-64) prove that Sir Henry was living in October 1671, and the following suit (Bridges, B. and A., 24/67) indicates his age and the possibility of his mother having been of the Wintour family: "Bill, 22 June 1655, by Henry Pole, an infant, son and heir of William Poole of Sapperton, who was the son and heir of Henry Pole, by George Wintour, his uncle and guardian, v. Gabriel Beeke."

P 2 There is no entry of his death or burial in the Sapperton Parish Register.

Wadham Coll., Oxon., 26 March 1691, aged 17, as son of Nevill Poole of Hammersmith, Middlesex, and Oaksey, Wilts. In 1710 Henry Poole sold the manor of Oaksey to Sir Francis Westley, but left "Poole and Kemble to trustees for the benefit of his two daughters, Finetta, wife of Benjamin Bathurst, and Elizabeth, who was unmarried. Bathurst, with the consent of his wife, had contracted to purchase property at Lydney, Gloucester, and it became necessary to realize the estate; three of the four trustees had died, and Elizabeth Poole was still single, consequently recourse was had to a private Act of Parliament (5 Geo. II., Cap. 5) to authorize the sale. By an indenture, dated 23 July 1732, the manors of Poole and Kemble were sold to Robert Westley for £20,000" ("Wilts Notes and Queries," Vol. 7, p. 131). Amongst wch the choieest and most usuall have beene the bearing of signes and tokens in sheildes called Armes being evident demonstracõns and testimonies of prowis and valour diversly distributed according to the qualities and deserts of the persons meriting the same, which order at the first was most prudently devised to stirre up and inflame the hearts of men to the ymitacion of vertue and noblenesse, and so it is continually observed to the intent that such as have done any eomendable service to theire Prince or Contrey either in warre or peace may therefore receive due honour in theire Lives, and allso devise the same to theire Posterity after theire deaths for ever. To ALL AND SINGVELER unto whom these presents shall come S[r] Edward Walker Knight Garter Principall King of Armes of Englishmen sendeth Greeting. It hath been an antient Custome and to this day continued that all Estates and Degrees of men have been and are distinguished each from other by Markes or Signes called Armes, being outward demonstrations of the inward worth of the bearers atcheived either by their valour in time of warr, or by their virtuous endeavours in time of Peace: In which respect whereas WILLIAM MOORE Sonne of WILLIAM MOORE of Washerock hill in the Parish of Allne Church in the County of Worcester Gent., and WILLIAM MOORE Sonne of WILLIAM MOORE of Bornegreen in the said County of Worcester Merchant (where they and their Ancestors have for diverse Descents lived in good esteeme and reputation) have upon all occasions readily exprefsed their Loyalty and service to their Prince and Country, whereby they may justly deserve to have such Armes afsigned to them as they may lawfully beare and as may descend to their Posterity. In the top dexter corner is emblazoned the achievement of Moore, and around the parchment is an ornamental scroll painted in gold.

Of the descendants of the grantees named above I have no actual knowledge, but an heiress would seem to have married a Yates, for Joseph Yates (whose bookplate is here given) bore as his crest the crest granted to the two William Moores.

Joseph Yates, who was a Bristol merchant, purchased the estate of Clanna in the parish of Alvington in the county of Gloucester and resided there. Of his children, Ann, the sole survivor, born 1788, married Colonel the Hon. William Middleton Noel, M.P. in 1838 for Rutland. She inherited Clanna, where she resided with her husband. The Hon. W. M. Noel was a younger son of Sir Gerard Noel (formerly Edwards), 2nd Baronet, by his wife Diana, Baroness Barham in her own right.

It will be observed that the Hon. W. M. Noel bears a shield of Noel quartering Middleton with an escutcheon of pretence of Yates quartering Moore. There was no issue of this marriage, and the estate of Clanna descended to the late Colonel Edward Andrew Noel, nephew of the Hon. W. M. Noel, who about the year 1886 sold it.

The following entries of Yates are from The Book of Common Prayer printed at Edinburgh in 1633 :—

Joseph Yates, born the 3rd Septemr 1751 or 1752.

Mary Taylor, born 6th Septemr 1754.

Joseph Yates, late of Donington in Shropshire, now of Stoke Bishop in the parish of Westbury-upon-Trim (near Bristol) in the county of Gloucester, was married to Mary Taylor of Droitwich in Worcestershire at the church of Saint Andrew in that borough on Wednesday the 28th day of November 1787.

Mary the wife of Joseph Yates died the 15 July 1794 and was buried in S^t Andrew's church in Droitwich.

Elizabeth Yates died the 29th day of December 1808 (in her 16th year) and was buried in the porch of Shirehampton chapel in the vault with her aunt Mary Yates.

The Family of Milborne of Somerset and Monmouthshire.[1]

George Milborne and Christian his wife had issue (see ante, p. 203)—

I. JOHN MILBORNE, eldest son, of whom hereafter (see later).

II. GEORGE MILBORNE, second son.

The only reference to this son occurs in the inscription on the monument in Wonastow Church. He probably died before his father, without issue. He is not mentioned by his father either in his will or codicil; further, his father therein styles Charles Milborne his second son, and Henry Milborne is described in his admission to the Middle Temple as the third son.

III. CHARLES MILBORNE, Esq., of Llanrothall in co. Hereford, third son. Called second son in the will of his father.[2]

He was a legatee under the will of his nephew William Milborne;[3] and under the will of and one of the executors of his father George Milborne.[2]

On 8th Dec. 1635 he paid Sir William Russell £1500 [and received his receipt] on behalf of George Milborne [his father], the Sheriff of the county of Monmouth, being ship money charged on that county by writ dated the 4th Aug. 1635.[4]

Under date the 29th Nov. 1650 he gave evidence touching the lands of Rowland Scudamore, gent., of Treworgan, then lately deceased, and who had been voted a Recusant in Arms, and in his deposition he stated that Lucy the widow of the said Rowland Scudamore had a jointure in part of the said lands; he also further stated that Mrs. Margaret Scudamore the wife of Rowland Scudamore the son of the said Rowland deceased, was the daughter-in-law of Mr. Walter Kirle.[5]

Silas Taylor [evidently an officer of the Commissioners], in a petition dated at Hereford 5th Aug. 1654, prayed that a sale of woods then cut and felled upon the estate lately belonging to Rowland Scudamore of Treworgan which had been sequestrated for his delinquency should be confirmed unto Charles Milborne of Llanrothall for the sum of 20*li.* 10*s.*, to be paid the 1st Nov. following.[6]

By an Indenture dated the 15th Sept. 1654[7] Charles Milborne [who is described as of Lentrol Hill, i.e., Llanthroll, in co. Hereford], jointly with Robert Stratford, esq., of the Middle Temple, London, and John Bonnett, gent., of High Holborn in co. Middlesex, for the sum of 1630*li.* 5*s.* 10*d.* became the purchaser of the Mansion house of Treorgan alias Treworgan and the lands and closes thereto belonging; a messuage or tenement called Suffuant with certain lands belonging to the same, and a messuage or tenement called Llangunogg alias Llangunnock, situate in the parishes of Llangarron and St. Weniards in co. Hereford, with certain lands. This property was purchased of the Trustees nominated and appointed by the Acts of Parliament for the sale of lands and estates forfeited to the Commonwealth for treason, and is described as being late parcel of the possessions of Rowland Scudamore, esq., late of Treorgan, whose estate was forfeited for his treason against the Parliament and people of England. The yearly value of the property purchased is set down as 139*li.* 1*s.* 10*d.*

In 1660, 12 Chas. II., he was appointed one of the Commissioners to provide money in the county of Hereford.[1]

He died unmarried 1662.

13th April 1638 he, by the assignment of Thomas Maunsell, by virtue of an Act of the 22nd May 1612 to the chamber of Edward Maddison and Thomas Maunsell's bedroom and to a small study adjoining it for life, fine, being the last assignment only, 20*s*.[1]

At a Parliament holden the 8th June 1638 he was called to the degree of the "Utter Bar."[2]

He appears to have had the chambers jointly with Antony the son and heir apparent of Edward Maddison.

On 17th July 1658 William Milborne [his nephew], eldest son of John Milborne late of Wonastow, co. Monmouth, esq., was admitted, being specially bound with Henry Milborne and Antony Maddison, both of the "Utter Bar," the fine being 5*li*.[3]

On 23rd November 1660 he was chosen Reader for the next Session.[4]

On 8th Feb. 1660 he was fined 20*li*. for not reading.[5]

At the Parliament holden the 26th June 1663 it was ordered that unless the arrears of 6 persons named, one of which, H. Milborne, were not paid before the next Parliament their chambers should be seized and padlocked.[6]

At the Parliament holden by adjournment the 13th Nov. 1663, the fine of 20*li*. for not reading when chosen on the 23rd November 1660 was discharged as he was not called in time.[7]

He was in the Commission of the Peace for the county of Monmouth, and according to evidence given before a Committee of the House of Commons he was also in the Commission of the Peace for three other counties, probably Hereford, Gloucester and Somerset.

He was appointed Recorder of the town of Monmouth by the Charter granted to the town by Charles II. the 18th May 1677.[8]

By an Indenture dated the 15th July 1641[9] he purchased of Thomas Vtber the elder of Hove in the county of Norfolk, Thomas Vtber the younger of the Middle Temple, London, gent. [son and heir apparent of the before-mentioned Thomas Vtber the elder] and Anne his wife a messuage with appurtenances called Hall Place in Raply in the county of Southampton, and all the lands, tenements, etc., called Seymors for the sum of 400*li*.

By an Indenture dated the 12th July 1645, 21 Charles I.,[10] he, in conjunction with his brother Charles Milborne, gent., of Llanrothal in co. Hereford, purchased of the said Thomas Vtber, esq., of the Middle Temple, for 100*li*. and other considerations all that messuage farm called Hall Place lying in Raply in the county of Southampton, and all those messuages, lands, etc., called Seymors alias Seymurs situate in Raply aforesaid, and also all other lands, etc., which were the inheritance of Anne the wife of the said Thomas Vtber. This deed appears to have been a further confirmation of the fee simple of the said messuages and lands and was enrolled the 17th of the same month.

He was party to an Indenture dated the 13th June 1657, 9 Charles II.,[11] viz., John Whitfield, esq., William Palmer, citizen and merchant, and Christopher Newsted, clerk, of the first part, and Edward Maddison, esq., Henry Milborne, esq., of the Middle Temple, London, and John Bonett, senior, gent., of the parish of St. Andrew's, Holborn, of the second part, witnesseth that in consideration of 5*s*. paid Henry Milborne and John Bonett, and of 348*li*. paid by the said Edward Maddison, the said John Whitfield and William Palmer by the consent and direction of the said Christopher Newsted and the said Edward Maddison sell unto Henry Milborne and John Bonett 4 messuages in South Somercotes in co. Lincoln, with lands, etc. The said John Whitfield came into Court the 20th of the same month and acknowledged the deed, which was enrolled the same day.

In 1659 he was named as one of the gentry of Hereford.[1]

On 26th June 1661 he filed a Bill in Chancery against Thomas Watkin Harry, yeoman, of Langattock-vibon-Avell. This was a dispute about land.[2] In 1660 he was appointed one of the Commissioners for providing money in the county of Hereford,[3] and again in 1664-5 to levy a grant of money in the same county.[4] In 1672 he was appointed one of the Commissioners to levy a grant of money in the county of Monmouth,[5] and again in 1677,[6] and in 1679 to levy a supply in the counties of Hereford and Monmouth,[7] and in 1690[8] and again in 1691[9] for the assessment of an aide in the county of Monmouth. On 3rd June 1673[10] he was appointed [with others] a Commissioner to perambulate the Forest of Dean. In 1675 he was one of the Commissioners for dealing with recusants in the counties of Hereford,[11] Gloucester[12] and Monmouth.[13]

In 1666-7 he appeared as plaintiff in a suit against Elizabeth Lewis, widow and executrix of Hugh Lewis, esq., late of Abergavenny in co. Monmouth, second daughter of Sir Philip Jones, knight, then late deceased, William Jones, eldest son of the said Sir Philip and brother to Elizabeth, Henry Jones, gent., of Penrose in co. Monmouth, another brother of Elizabeth, and George Milborne, defendants, respecting the marriage settlement of the said Elizabeth Lewis, who was worth 18*li.* per annum in land and a considerable sum in money before her marriage.[14] The said Henry Milborne obtained a Commission, dated the 3rd December 1666, 18 Charles II.,[15] to administer interrogatories to witnesses with reference to this marriage settlement. These depositions were taken at Monmouth the 18th Jan. 1667, 18 Charles II., when it was found that one Lewis Morgan of Abergavenny stated that he drew the settlement. John Harris gave evidence that Henry Jones and Elizabeth Lewis were brother and sister, and that George Milborne and Christian the wife of Henry Jones were nephew and niece of the plaintiff Henry Milborne. Charles Milborne[16] gave evidence that Christian the wife of Henry Jones was sister to William Milborne.

In conjunction with his nephews Charles and George Milborne, esqs., of Wonastow, he filed a Bill in Chancery the 28th Jan. 1661 against Thomas Clayton of the University of Oxford, Doctor of Physic, William Clayton of . . . . ., Richard Clayton, clerk, of Shillington in co. Wilts, and Thomas Blanchard, clerk, of Northraxhall in co. Wilts. From this bill it appears that the defendants had asserted that John Milborne his brother [and father of the said Charles and George Milborne] had at the time of his marriage with Susan the sister of Dr. Clayton, and prior to his settlement of the estates on William his son and heir, made over certain properties comprised in the before-mentioned settlement to the defendants by some deed or deeds for a long term of years to commence after the death of the said John. plaintiff prayed for a subpœna to be issued to compel them to come into Court and answer the complaint.[1]

Under date the 20th Feb. 1673, 25 Charles II.,[2] with his two nephews Charles and George Milborne he appealed to the House of Lords against the Decree in Chancery[3] charging the Milborne estate for the support of the half brothers and sisters of the said Charles and George Milborne by colour of some general words in the will of William Milborne, brother of the whole blood to the said Charles and George, but it appears that the petitioners' Bill of Review was dismissed for want of Error in Law and they claimed that if not released the children of the whole blood would be worse provided for than those of the half blood and prayed their Lordships to revise the Decree.

From the depositions it appears this suit lasted about eleven years, and from his frequent journeys his health was much impaired.

He was Steward of the Manor Courts of the Duke of Beaufort and some others in the counties of Monmouth and Hereford, and as he could not have held these offices before the Restoration in 1660 we may naturally conclude that the Milbornes from their family connections were Royalists. Mr. Wakeman wrote me in June 1864 that he had "never met with their name in any document during the Civil War or Protectorate."

This is the Henry Milborne who was ordered on Monday the 13th Aug. 1660 to be summoned by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons to answer the misdemeanour, etc., in taking from the Clerk of the Crown the writ issued for the election of a Burgess to serve in the then Parliament for the Borough of Milborne Port in co. Somerset and in keeping the same unexecuted whereby the House was deprived of a Member to serve for the same Borough, but no attendance was entered.[4]

In Bloome's "List of the Gentry of the County of Monmouth" in 1673 he is styled of Wonastow, but in his will he calls himself of Llanrothal.

At the Fifth Session of the Mine Law Court held at Clearwell on the 19th Sept. 1682[5] he acted with William Wolseley, esq., as joint deputies for the Marquess of Worcester, Constable of St. Briavel's Castle.

He appears to have been the subject of complaint to the Marquess of Worcester that if not himself a Papist he permitted Roman Catholic priests to resort to his house. The Marquess referred the complaint or accusation to the Justices of the Peace with whom he [Henry Milborne] sat. They replied that he did the King good service, although his sisters Mrs. Katherine and Mrs. Christian Milborne being Romanists harboured the priests of their own faith, and a certificate of his attendance at Llanrothal Church was also furnished by the Rev. Thomas Evens, the minister.[6]

In Aubrey's MS. Natural History of Wilts, fos. 337-338, preserved in the Library of the Royal Society, Burlington House, is a very interesting paper entitled :—

"A Digression.
"Remarques taken from Henry Milbourne, Esq^r, concerning Husbandry Trade in Herefordshire, etc.

"Urchenfield [sandy soile] about 1647 was the barrenest part of Herefordshire. Before the use of Limeing, their Land was known since it has grown very considerable for Rie and Barley: And now by the long use of Lime the Leer the nature of the ground is so much bound up that it far exeeeds Monmouthshire [which is a Clay ground] for Wheat, Which before furnished that part of the Country with Wheat: Now they buy their seed-wheat, and the rate of the Land is so advaneed by it that what before was not worth ten groates per Acre for Rie, now is worth eighteen shillings per Acre for Wheat, And so is let in Severall places, so where the lime does so well agree in the sandy part of the Country.

"About 1661 they used to send their Kine to Letton [rieh Pasturing which lyes upon the side of the River Wye] and then generally pay'd a Marke a Cow for their Pasture, sent them at May and took them away at St. Andrew's tyde: and the Owner of the Land did provide People of the Neighbourhood to Milke the Kine and make the butter and Cheese: And they did proportionate [though they milkt all together] every oue's share so equally that they found as good advantage of their Kine they sent thither as of those they kept at home: And the reason of the justnesse was, because that the Landlord had the more Kine into his pasture, the more carefull he was of it: And therefore when he found any of the poor Milkers faulty that Party should have no more kine the next yeare: and their whole being depending upon this way made them the more exact in it for fear of being deprived.

"Now they are fallen into the Veine of Clover, all this fashion is altered, and those which kept no kine before now keep some 12, some 20. And they take care that they have two or three pieces of Clover one under another; for it holds but three years at most and that y^{t} makes it the more generally used, is that they have lately learned to gett out the seed which before they bought from beyond Sea.

"They thrash it on a Hurdle, through which the seed falls, and is very small, as Mustered Seed; before they thrash it they grind it in a Cyder-mill and then thresh it four or five times. Ground that before was not worth ten groates per acre is worth (while Clover holds) xx^{sh} per acre, and nothing better to feed pigges than that. The reason why Limeing is now left of is beeause Clover supplies it.

"Note, that as Urchenfield hath advantaged itself by Croppes of Wheate, so they have a disadvantage in not having so good Croppes of Barley, as formerly they had after Rye. 'Tis a proverb among them: 'I will pay you when I sell my Barley and when I sell my Wooll,' which were then the two comodities that brought in the Money. Both which are now decayed, viz., the Barley by Limeing and the Wooll by the Importation of Spanish Wooll, and also by making Cloath so fine thinne that it doth not spend one half of the Wooll that formerly it did. Formerly about 1637 or 1643 Wooll 35^{s} or 36^{s} p. stone (12^{lbs}), and since so about 1666 or 1667 it hath been at xx^{s} or xxii^{s} p. stone. Whereby it is thought we goe out of the fine Lemster Wooll called Lemster-ore and fell upon coarse Wooll, and the body carkes of the Lemster Sheep are not worth above ten groates or two shillings, whereas the body of the Course-wooll Sheep is worth a crown or a noble, and twice as much wooll: And were it not for the Compost, that is made of the fine Wooll Sheep, they would not keep any fine-wool Sheep.

"At Canon Peon, they doe affirme, that Limeing of their Lands hath made their wooll courser.

"About Lemster, in regard that Lime is very scarce, they sowe it out of a Seed-les, as they doe Corne, and thereby doe make very good manure for their ground, as in any other part of this Countrey they doe by heapes."

proved the same as one of the executors the 24th July 1639. He was also a legatee and trustee under the will of his nephew William Milborne dated the 12th July 1660, and proved the will as executor the 20th June 1662. Legatee under the will of his brother Charles Milborne of Llanrothal of land, tenements, etc., in various places (see p. 236). He was also a legatee under the will of his niece Lucy Milborne dated the 5th Dec. 1669,[1] and under the will of his sister Elizabeth Milborne dated the 9th Jan. 1689.[2]

His nephew Milborne Scudamore by his will dated the 28th April 1689 bequeathed him "the summe of ten pounds to buy him mourning."[3]

Mr. Waterman, writing me under date the 8th June 1864, states that his seal of arms, as shewn by a number of documents bearing his signature, was Argent, a cross moline sable pierced. But Fuller in his "Worthies," vol. ii, p. 122, gives the arms of his father as Gules, a chevron between three escallops argent. The Milborne arms in the parish church of Frampton Cotterell in the co. of Gloucester were Argent, a cross moline sable, in the dexter chief point a mullet gules.[4]

In his will dated the 11th Sept. 1692[5] he bequeathed a legacy to his alliesman the Rev. John Mason of Christchurch; also to each daughter of his alliesman Henry Jones of Penrose. This, no doubt, is the Henry Jones mentioned as cousin and alliesman in the codicil dated the 21st Sept. 1692.

He married MARY the third daughter of SIR PHILIP JONES,[6] knight, of Treowen in co. Monmouth, but does not appear to have had any issue. The Rev. C. J. Robinson, M.A., mentions this marriage.[7]

He died 1692.

As he was appointed one of the executors to his father's will dated the 30th May 1635, and of course then of age, he must have been upwards of 78 years of age at the time of his decease.

It appears that he met his death through an accident, for the Rev. Mr. Nicholls relates[8]: "There is a tradition in the parish, writes the Rev. John Dundas Watherston, that old Parson Barry, who died some fifty years ago aged a hundred, laid Squire Milbourne in the Munnow.[9] He was said to have walked, having broken his neck, down Mill Hill [a hill leading down from Skenchill to Tregate Mill], when returning probably to Tregate Castle."

His will, dated 11th Sept. 1692,[5] as Henry Milborne, esq., of Llanrothal in co. Hereford. To his kinswoman and niece Mary Herbert of Llanrothal, spinster, he gave all that his messuage, tenement and farm, etc., then in the possession of Thomas Morgan his undertenant thereof, called Perthy Lloydon,[10] to her, her heirs and assigns for ever. To his executor hereafter named he gave his woods and underwoods whatsoever and wheresoever growing and being upon any of his lands within the several counties of Hereford and Monmouth, to be by him sold for and towards the payment and discharge of all his debts, funeral expenses and legacies, viz., the sum of 400*li.*, which he gave and bequeathed to his very much esteemed and honourable lord and godson Henry Lord Herbert of Ragland. Also 100*li.* entire to his very much honoured the Right Honourable Lady Rebecca Marchioness of Worcester to buy herself a jewell. Also 100*li.* unto his kinswoman and niece Mary Herbert of Llanrothal, spinster. 100*li.* to his servant Thomas Jones of Llanro-

To his kinsman Charles Milborne, gent., son of his said nephew Charles Milborne, esq., he gave his messuages and lands, etc., situate in the parish of Langattock-vibon-avell, to him, his heirs and assigns for ever. And whereas the said Right Honourable Charles Marquess of Worcester owed him several sums of money which he had lent him, he directed that his executor do use him kindly touching the same and release him the interest thereof; and lastly he made his kinsman and nephew George Bonnett of the city of London, silkman, to be sole executor, to whom he gave the remainder of his goods and chattels after the payment of his debts and legacies. He further appointed Lord Charles Marquess of Worcester to be overseer of his last will and testament, to see the same truly performed, and for his trouble bequeathed him 100*li.* The will was signed Henry Milborne, the witnesses being Mary Fortune, Thomas Jones, John Ballard, also Isaac Davyes, Tobias Middleton, John Middleton and Morgan Watkins.

By a codicil dated the 20th Sept. 1692 he confirmed the above will and gave his brother-in-law Charles Herbert, gent., of Llanrothal, all that his messuages and tenements or farms and lands, etc., situate in the parish of St. Wannards, co. Hereford, and then in the possession of William Stocke, William Jones and the widow Shough as his tenants, to him, his heirs and assigns for Walterston, co. Hereford.

Communicated by J. A. Bradney, Esq., C.B., F.S.A.

Walterston is so called from the founder Walter de Lacy, the Norman lord. In Welsh it is Tre-Walter. The church has been over-restored and much altered. In the south window of the chancel is the shield of Cecil, ancestor of the noble families of the Marquesses of Exeter and Salisbury. This was originally in their old mansion of Allt-yr-ynys, the chief seat and estate in the parish, and was removed to the church a few years ago. Quarterly: 1 and 6, Barry of ten argent and azure, over all six inescutcheons sable, 3, 2, 1, each charged with a lion rampant of the first [Cecil]; 2, Per pale gules and azure, a lion rampant argent supporting a tree eradicated proper [Winston]; 3, Gules, three towers triple-towered argent [Sir Howel of Caerlleon]; 4, Argent, on a bend cotised gules three cinquefoils or [Eckington]; 5, Argent, a chevron between three chess-rooks ermine [Walcot].

The quarterings come in thus: Thomas Sitsyllt [Cecil] married Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir Gilbert Winston, son of John son of Sir Gilbert son of Ivo by Joan his wife, daughter of Howell ap Iorwerth, lord of Caerlleon, who founded the Abbey of Llantarnam in 1178. Richard Cecil of Burghley (father of Lord Burghley who died 1598) married Joan, daughter and heir of William Eckington of Bourne, co. Lincoln, by Alice, daughter of Robert Walbeoffe of Barholme, of the ancient family of Walbeoffe of Llanhamlech, co. Brecon. Walcot probably came in with Eckington.

The chalice is inscribed: "The Gift of Mrs Mary Morgan for | the use of the Com'unicants of the | Parish of Walterstone 1718."

On the lid is: "The Gift of Mrs Mary Morgan | to the Parish of Walterstone."

This lady was buried at Monmouth 28 April 1717. Her will, as Maria Morgan of Monmouth, spinster, dated 9 July 1716, proved at Hereford 25 May 1717, is as follows:—

My kinswoman Mary Saunders, wife of John Saunders of Monmouth, gent. My kinswoman Anne Warner, wife of John Warner of Hasecomb, co. Admiral Rowley Bulteel.

Communicated by Sir Alfred Irwin, C.S.I.

Rowley Bulteel, baptized at Stepney on 5 Feb. 1753, son of James Bulteel, mariner, and his wife Rose, daughter of Arthur Cary of Derryard, co. Derry (see page 19), seems to have been named Rowley because his mother's cousin-german Arabella Dawson was wife of Admiral Sir William Rowley, K.B. Possibly for the same reason he entered the Navy.

In 1799 Captain Rowley Bulteel commanded H.M.S. Belliqueux in the expedition to Holland. On 4 August 1800, in the same ship, while convoying four outward-bound Indiamen, off the coast of Brazil he fell in with three French frigates (the same three in which Admiral Savary had conveyed Humbert's expedition to Killala Bay in 1798) and a prize schooner. The Belliqueux captured la Concorde; la Medée surrendered to one of the Indiamen; la Franchise and the schooner escaped in the night ("Naval Chronicle," v., 71; Allen's "Battles of the British Navy," ii., 12; James' "Naval History," iii., 45).

* Blotted over.

Soon after this Captain Bulteel was placed on half-pay, and took a lease of Mount Pleasant Cottage, Plymstock, for 14 years. He was promoted—

Rear-Admiral of the Blue	25 Oct. 1809
„ „ „ White	31 July 1810
„ „ „ Red	12 Aug. 1812
Vice-Admiral of the Blue	4 June 1814.

He is described as Admiral of the Blue in the instructions for his will, dated 7 Oct. 1818. This document was proved on 13 Sept. 1820 (P.C.C., 510, Kent). He desired to be buried near the altar in the Church of Plymstock; his estate to be invested for the benefit of his sister Mary Bulteel for her life, and the principal afterwards to be paid to Catherine Harris (née Bulteel, apparently of Fleet, co. Devon), relict of John Harris of Radford, co. Devon. Her son John Harris of Radford and Richard Rosedew of Barlewood were the executors.

SWORD RESTS.

It has for a long period been the usage when a parishioner was elected to the important dignity of Lord Mayor, for a wrought-iron stand to be erected to hold the sword of state during the service when his Lordship attended church in his official capacity. These rests were generally adorned with the Royal arms and crown in the upper part, below which were the City arms, the Lord Mayor's family arms and those of his company. There were formerly two of these belonging to St. Olave and four at All Hallows Staining, but when the latter church was pulled down only two of these sword rests were brought to St. Olave; of the other two, one having the arms of Sir Thomas Rawlinson, Lord Mayor in 1705, is now in All Hallows on the Wall, the other belonged to Sir William Stewart, Lord Mayor 1721, and is to be seen in St. Andrew Undershaft. The oldest of these rests in St. Olave bears the arms of Sir Charles Peers, citizen and salter, son of Edmund Peers of London, citizen and grocer. He was knighted 16 July 1707, and Alderman of Tower Ward and Lord Mayor in 1715.

* Continued from p. 231.

The Arms are: (1) Quarterly: I. Per pale, the dexter gules, three lions passant-guardant or [ENGLAND]; sinister, or, a lion rampant gules within a tressure fleury counter-fleury of the second [SCOTLAND]. IV. Per chevron, the upper part per pale, the dexter gules, two lions passant-guardant or; the sinister or, a lion rampant azure within an orle of hearts gules; in base gules, a horse courant argent, over all on an inescutcheon gules the iron crown of Charlemagne gold [BRUNSWICK—LUNEBERG]. For King George the First: With the Garter round the arms.

Below (2): Argent, a cross gules, in the first canton the sword of St. Paul; of the second, the City of London. (3): Sable, a chevron between three lions' heads erased argent, a chief or [PEERS]. [In the church it is painted as "escallops" instead of lions' heads, which is incorrect, being the arms of Linacre.] (4) Per chevron azure and gules, three salt dredges or, sprinkling salt argent [SALTERS' COMPANY].

The date $\frac{17}{15}$. [This is on the south side and east end of the choir seats.]

The next in point of date is for Sir John Thompson, Knt., a vintner and Governor of the Russia Company, Alderman of Langbourn Ward and Lord Mayor in 1736-7, knighted 31 January 1726-7. He died 18 Feb. 1750, aged 79, and was buried in the church of St. Michael, Crooked Lane.

Administration 5 March 1749-50 to Cath. his widow. Revoked and granted 5 July 1750 to Dame Rebecca (his dau.); again 8 Oct. 1757. Will of widow Cath., who died 8 Oct. 1764, aged 74, as of Woodford, Essex, proved 28 Jan. 1766. To be buried at Leatherhead. M.I. there.

Arms.—I. The Royal arms as before but without the Garter. II. The City arms. III. The arms of Sir J. I. ROYAL ARMS.

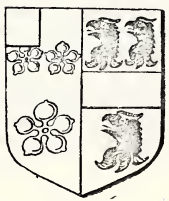
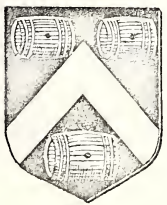
II. CITY OF LONDON.



III. LAMBERT impaling WILMOTT.



IV. VINTNERS.

Sir Daniel Lambert, Knt., was descended from a younger branch of Lambert of Lambert's Oaks and Perrott's Manor, both in Surrey. He was free of the Vintners, Alderman of Tower Ward 1737-50, and Lord Mayor after the death of Humphrey Parsons during office, 21 March 1740-1, and M.P. for the City 1741. He married at Banstead Mary, dau. of John Wilmot, citizen and haberdasher of London. He died of prison fever 13 May 1750, s.p., aged 65, and was buried at Banstead. M.I. there. His wife died 14 May 1770, aged 85.

For Lambert pedigree see "Surrey Arch. Collections," Vol. XVI.

Appended is an abstract of his own will and that of his nephew, Nicholas Lambert.

(P.C.C., 163, Greenley.) Sir Daniel Lambert, knt., one of the Aldermen of the City of London. Will dated 27 Feb. 1749. He desires to be buried in the parish church of Banstead in Surrey, in the grave with his father and mother or near it, and that his brothers and sisters, nephews and neices do attend the funeral. By the settlement lately made on the marriage of nephew Edward Lambert son of brother Edward Lambert with Ann Eliot spinster, testator settled all his messuages, lands and hereditaments, both freehold and copyhold, in the parishes of Nutfield, Bletchingley, Horne, Burstow, Ryegate and Horley in Surrey of the yearly value of £250 10s. or thereabouts, after this testator's death, on the said nephew Edward Lambert and Ann his wife and their issue in tail male, as is fully set forth in that settlement which by this will is confirmed. As concerning testator's manor of Parrots with his capital mansion, messuages, lands, &c., both freehold and copyhold, in Banstead, the same to nephew Daniel Lambert son of brother Nicholas Lambert and his wife Elizabeth, and to his heirs in tail male, the elder before the younger, and failing such issue to the daughters, also the furniture at Banstead, but testator's wife Dame Mary Lambert to have the use of the mansion house and the furniture, plate, &c., if she wills to live there for her life. To Jane and Carolina daughters of nephew-in-law John Hodgson, each £250, making £500, which testator intended giving to their mother had she been living, also £50 more to each of them. To the churchwardens and the overseers of the poor of Banstead, £100 to be placed at interest for the benefit of sixteen poor inhabitants who do not get parish pay; also £5 to be distributed in bread the first Sunday after testator's burial. To the Rev. Mr. John Edwards of Banstead, £10 for mourning and 20s. for a ring. To Mr. John Addington and Mr. William Boothby, each £10 and 20s. for a ring. Executors, brother Edward Lambert and said nephews Daniel and Edward Lambert. Proved 23 May 1750.

Nicholas Lambert of St. Dunstan in the West, London, Vintner. (Brother of Sir Daniel.) Will dated 15 April 1751. To be buried in the parish church of Banstead in the same grave with late wife Elizabeth Lambert. To son Daniel Lambert the house and land in Banstead called Flint Castle. To granddaughter

Jane Hodgeson, £600; to granddaughter Caroline Hodgeson, £500, both at their age of 21 or marriage if before. Grandchildren Daniel, Edmund, Thomas, Ann and Wilmot Lambert, £300 each at their ages of 21 or marriage. Granddaughter Elizabeth Usborne, £600 when aged 21 years or marriage. To wife Penelope Lambert, £100 with all the household goods and furniture except the plate and china which is to be equally divided between said wife, daughters Usborne and Jenny Hodgeson and son Daniel Lambert. For a monument commemorating testator, his wife, and a son and daughter who are deceased, £50. Executors, son Daniel Lambert and daughter Mary Usborne.

Proved 24 April 1755 by the son Daniel Lambert and the daughter Mary wife of John Usborne.

The fourth sword stand has the Royal arms and those of the City as on the last two rests, below which are two shields; one has: Per chevron, fleury counter-fleury argent and gules [PLOMER]; the other shield is: Azure, a chevron or, between in chief a fleur-de-lis enclosed by two brickaxes, and in base a bundle of lathes, all argent [Arms of the Bricklayers and Tilers' Company]. This commemorates Sir William Plomer, Knt., who was free of the Bricklayers and Tilers' Company, Alderman of Langborne Ward, and Lord Mayor in 1781.

The two sword rests which were originally in All Hallows Staining, although now in other churches, it will be interesting on that account to include here. The older and much the finer rest in all ways is that of Sir William Steward, citizen and barber-surgeon, who was Alderman of Cripplegate Ward and Lord Mayor in 1721, to whose memory there is a monument in the church of St. Lawrence Jewry which was originally erected in the Guildhall Chapel.

This sword rest, which is a good piece of ironwork, displays these arms: at the top the Royal arms, viz., 1 and 4, England; 2, Scotland; 3, Ireland, with an inescutcheon for Hanover with the Elector's cap over it. II. The City of London. III. Or, a fess chequy argent and azure, over all on a bend engrailed sable a bendlet gules [STEWARD]. The other rest, now in All Hallows, London Wall, was for Sir Thomas Rawlinson, one of a distinguished City family who came from Lancashire; he was a son of the Rev. Robert Rawlinson of Charlwood in Surrey, and grandson of Daniel Rawlinson, first-cousin of a former Sir Thomas Rawlinson, Lord Mayor in 1705. Sir Thomas Rawlinson the second was elected Alderman of Broad Street Ward in 1746, Sheriff in 1748, knighted in 1760, having been Lord Mayor 1753. Sir Thomas was a grocer, and on the sword rest the arms are those of the City and those of Rawlinson impaling the arms of the Grocers' Company, viz.: Gules, two bars gemell between three escallop shells argent; impaling, argent, a chevron gules between ten cloves sable [The GROCERS]. Sir Thomas Rawlinson died in Fenchurch Street 3 Dec. 1769.

The arms are marshalled incorrectly; if the Grocers' arms are impaled at all with Rawlinson they should be on the dexter side of the shield, that is, the reverse of the place they hold.

Will of John de Bleobury.

This ecclesiastic, whose name is apparently identified with the Berkshire village of Blewbury, near Wallingford, seems to have held some appointment under William de Edington, Bishop of Winchester and Lord Treasurer. In 1357, when Bishop Edington became Chancellor of England, Bleobury is described as having "served him faithfully for eight years," but in what capacity does not appear. Once, in his will, he calls the Bishop "my master."

Bleobury then (1357) held the living of Brightwell [co. Berks?]; also an office called the deaconship in the Benedictine Nunnery of Wilton, in Wiltshire, which Pope Innocent VI. granted him permission to exchange with Robert de Bourton for a prebend (Netherbury in Terra) in Salisbury Cathedral.

In 1358 he held the living of Market Lavington, co. Wilts, then in the gift of Bishop William de Edington, with provision of deanery and prebend of St. John's, Beverley, but had litigation with one Andrew, who made claim to the latter. In 1359 Innocent VI. grants his petition for a canonry and prebend at Wells, and in 1366 John de Crykkelade was admitted to the canonry and prebend of Lutton (late of John Blebyry) by exchange for a portion of the predial tythes of Northangre in the parish of Kingsclere, co. Berks.

The prebend of Totenhale (or Tottenham Court) in St. Paul's, London, was also held by John de Blebery. He was admitted in 1362, and exchanged for St. Stephen's, Westminster, in the following year.

In 1359 Bishop Edington had founded in his native village of Edington, in Wiltshire, a College of Augustinian Friars, known as Bonhommes, to which, in the lifetime of its founder, Bleobury was a liberal benefactor. In 1365 he, with others, obtained the Royal licence to grant property in Coleshill and Burgwardescote [Burcote], co. Berks, to the Rector and Brethren of House of the Order of St. Augustine at Edington, which grant comprised the largest of its estates. In his will Bleobury also makes bequests to John de Aylesbury, the first Rector, and to each inmate of the same House, where an obit was kept for him as one of its benefactors.

In 1369 he was one of the feoffees of Thomas Hungerford in the purchase of Farley Castle from the Burghersh family.

Bishop Edington, dying in 1366, appoints Bleobury—who was then Rector of Witney, co. Oxon—one of his executors, bequeathing him the sum of forty pounds, and a silver cup with a cover. His own death soon followed, his will, dated 2nd September 1368, having been proved on the 4th of the Kalends of May 1372. In providing for masses for his own soul, and those of his parents, it will be noticed that he also includes that of William de Edington, late Bishop of Winchester. He appoints as two of his own executors, Thomas Hungerford, and John Corf, clerk, Rector of Collingbourne Abbatis, co. Wilts, both of whom had, together with himself, acted in that capacity under the will of Bishop Edington.

Ashmole, in his Antiquities of Berkshire, 1719, vol. i., p. 180-1, describes the memorial of John de Bleobury in Shillingford Church. On a raised tomb under the north window of the Chancel was a monumental brass representing a priest, vested in his habit, beneath a rich canopy of tabernacle work—a narrow fillet of brass, around the margin bearing an inscription in Norman French. In the window above the monument, in stained glass, was also the kneeling figure of a priest, in a red gown and purple hood, and beneath it Pro Anima Johannis Bleburi Pater Noster.

In the body of the Church, near the entrance to the Chancel, lay also a slab which once bore the effigies of William Blebury and his wife Isabel, no doubt the father and mother of John de Bleobury, near whose sepulchre he desires burial.

Leland, in his notes on Edington Monastery (Itinerary, iv., 25), says that Blnbyri, "as he heard," was buried there; but this is disproved by his will, as also by the memorials in Shillingford Church, described by Ashmole, all of which have now disappeared.
